Substantial Share Of Aid May Be Shifted To Asia, Dulles Says

Indochina, Formosa May Get Larger Grants

WASHINGTON, April 12 (AP)—Secretary of State Dulles has told Congress that the Eisenhower administration may shift a substantial share of American aid from Western Europe to the Far East.

Concern Voiced As Credit Buying Reaches Record

WASHINGTON, April 12 (INS)—Government officials said today that installment credit has reached a new high of more than 17 billion dollars as a result of brisk automobile sales and other heavy civilian buying.

Some economists express concern over this. They declare that if there should be a business decline as the result of a Korean truce, the huge installment purchases would tend to slow down further consumer spending.

They also voice qualms about the credit picture generally and express belief the government should put on more brakes.

However, others contend that, so far as installment credit is concerned, it is only keeping pace with modern selling and buying habits.

Wiley Declares Kremlin Peace Drive Is 'Phony'

WASHINGTON, April 12 (AP)—Sen. Wiley (R-Wis.) said today the prime objective of Moscow's peace gestures, which he called "phony," may be to buy time for a Communist move into the Near East to gain a bridge toward Africa.

Wiley, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, advanced this theory in an interview amid growing indications that top American officials are becoming extremely wary of recent Soviet overtures.

Eisenhower's View

President Eisenhower has said these offers should be taken at face value until proved false but Wiley, a frequent conferee with Secretary of State Dulles, had no hesitation in labeling them "phony."

Previously, Sen. Taft of Ohio, the Republican leader, said that while the overtures must be followed up, he believes "Russia is trying to fool us."

Wiley said he believes the Communist objective is to lull the free world into a false sense of security.

Then the Soviets may transfer their primary attention to the Near East and Africa, rather than moving in Indochina or at some other point in Asia, he said.

Eisenhower Will Send His Brother To Latin America

WASHINGTON, April 12 (AP)—President Eisenhower told an audience of Western Hemisphere delegates today he is sending his brother Milton on a special mission to Latin America.

Purpose of the trip, the President said, is to make the U. S. government "fully informed of the economic and social conditions now prevailing throughout our continent and of all the efforts being pressed to bring a better life to all our peoples."

The President also cautioned in a Pan American Day speech that Communist forces are seeking to intimidate and divide the free world.

A new foreign aid program for the 1954 fiscal year starting July 1 is expected to be ready next month, after completion of a revision of the $7,600,000,000 Truman budget program under direction of Mutual Security Director Harold Stassen.

Indochina Situation Not Good
Dulles testified:
1. The Indochina military situation is "not so favorable as we might have expected." If the French will follow the American example of relying more heavily on the South Koreans and supply more arms to the Viet Nam allies the situation may improve, he said. Dulles said it is important that the Indochinese receive convincing assurances of political independence. Noting that the U. S. already is paying about one third of the cost of the Indochina war, he said nevertheless "a somewhat larger expenditure" may be necessary. He explained that it would be in the long run economical to spend more over the next 12 or 18 months "if at the end of that time we could feel that the expenditure could be drastically and progressively reduced."

2. The creation of a "potential" force on Formosa is very important to prevent the diversion of Chinese forces to the two flank positions in Indochina and Korea.

Amnesty In Hungary Hinted By Communists
BUDAPEST, Hungary, April 12 (AP)—Hungary's Communist-led Peoples Front hinted today that an amnesty may be declared for those who have committed "mistakes" against the regime.

Holding out a promise of "reconciliation and forgiveness," it also threatened a crackdown on officials who have abused their power.

A similar amnesty, releasing many categories of prisoners from jails and places of detention but excluding political offenders, was declared in Soviet Russia on March 27. Romania followed suit on April 4.

Rival Group Raids Stalin, FDR Memorial Gathering
CHICAGO, April 12 (INS)—Some 200 jeering men and women rushed a Chicago meeting described as a memorial for Soviet Premier Stalin and the late President Roosevelt today and an undetermined number of persons were injured in a chair-hurling fray.

More than a dozen squads of police rushed into the fracas. They were uncertain how many persons were injured, but they said none were hospitalized.

The riot broke out at a meeting of the American-Soviet Friendship Organization at the Peoples Auditorium. Handbills against the group were distributed bearing the signature of the American Friends of the Anti-Bolshevik Bloc of Nations.

Pearl Hart, identified with Chicago groups described as "peace and racial equality" movements, was a speaker at the memorial gathering.

She said some 25 persons were seated in the auditorium, awaiting the meeting when 200 of the other group stormed. Fist fights broke out and chairs were hurled.

An undetermined number of persons were arrested and later released.

The meeting resumed with some 75 spectators.

Sabres Blast 7 Red Jets Out Of Korea Skies

U.S. Ace, Shot Down In Furious Air Battle, Rescued By 'Copter

SEOUL, Monday, April 13 (AP)—Sabre jets shot seven Communist MIGs out of the clear North Korean skies and probably downed another in furious air battles Sunday nearly eight miles up, the Fifth Air Force said.

At least one U. S. Sabre was shot down but the pilot, jet ace Capt. Joseph McConnell Jr. of Apple Valley, Calif., was rescued by helicopter.

Red Rail Yard Bombed
Air duels broke out when U. S. Thunderjets roared to within 10 miles of the Communist MIG base at Antung, Manchuria, late Sunday and bombed a North Korean railroad yard.

Returning fighter-bomber pilots said they destroyed 27 boxcars and one building while a chain of explosions rolled up towering columns of smoke and flames.

The strikes and the biggest air battle since March 21 came as Gen. O. P. Weyland, Far East Air Forces commander in Tokyo, declared there has been no letup in the Allied air war during Panmunjom negotiations with the Reds.

Fighting Continues At Outpost
There was no letup in ground fighting, either, between Chinese Reds and South Korean 3rd Division troops. Fighting at Outpost Texas, east of the Pukhan River on the Central Front, raged into its seventh day Sunday with possession of the crest still in hot dispute.

Determined Koreans drove the Chinese off the 2,000-foot height early Sunday and recaptured it—the 12th time the outpost has changed hands in a week.

The Eighth Army said the South Koreans killed or wounded 165 Communists in regaining the top.

New Indonesian Crisis Brewing

JAKARTA, Indonesia, April 12 (AP)—The split in Indonesia's Army command appeared today to be building up to a new national crisis.

Reliable informants said the commander of the 5th Division, who gained control of his troops by a bloodless coup, in which he ousted the regular commander last fall, had sent a virtual ultimatum to President Soekarno.

This demanded, the informants said, prosecutions of Army officers and civilian leaders who staged riotous demonstrations here last Oct. 17.

The commander, Lt. Col. Soedirman, was reported to have declared his soldiers "will not be responsible for eventual consequences" if the demand is not met by next Wednesday.

The bitter intra-Army quarrel stems from the Defense Ministry's plan to cut the 200,000-man Indonesian Army in half as an economy move. Powerful ex-guerrilla groups oppose the move, fearing they will be weeded out in favor of Dutch-trained regulars.

East German Red Drive Against Protestant Youth Nears Goal
BERLIN, April 12 (AP)—A Communist secret police campaign to destroy the Protestant church's "Youth Communities" in East Germany neared its goal today.

Responsible clergymen said Wilhelm Zaisser's dreaded Ministry of State Security has collected evidence against thousands of church workers alleging that they violated the Communist-written law for "protection of peace" in conducting youth activities.

Many members of the Communist-sponsored Free German Youth (FDJ) have been forced in recent months to become police agents and inform on their neighborhood church officials, those sources said.

Red Captors May Have 'Converted' Some Americans

WASHINGTON, April 12 (AP)—Some American soldiers about to be returned from prisoner of war camps in Korea may appear to have been converted to communism, the Defense Department advised tonight.

With exchange of sick and wounded prisoners of war scheduled to start in Korea April 20, the department issued a "fact sheet" saying that "various techniques" used by Red captors on the minds of some Americans may have warped them to apparent acceptance of communism.

The results have shown up in letters various war prisoners have sent to relatives, and in broadcasts they have made from Red strongholds.

Cannot Be Condemned
"The Communists no doubt by their unremitting efforts ensnared some prisoners of war in their propaganda web," the department's statement said. "Some of them appear to have succumbed to the relentless Communist pressures, repetitious arguments, distorted and selected information and various inducements to accept, or at least repeat, many elements of Communist propaganda."

"Such captive soldiers cannot be condemned for co-operating with the Communists, at least outwardly," the statement continued, "for the alternative may appear to be torture or death—or both."

Most of the Red procedure described in the fact sheet was of the standard Communist propaganda type—"deceptively soft and ingratiating treatment" for prisoners who might be influenced, Communist indoctrination schools, opportunities to send letters home.

'Brain Wash' Technique
The department did not go into all details regarding the grim reference to "various" techniques. But its formal announcement followed by about a week reports circulating in official Washington that the psychological device called "brain wash" probably was being used by the Reds on American prisoners.

This technique does not involve overt physical torture, but uses instead prolonged, unending questioning, brilliant lights poured on the subject's face, and repeated suggestion. The thoughts and philosophies of a life-time can sometimes be swept out of the mind and the doctrine of communism eased in to replace them.

Blind Man Asks Ike's Help In Getting His Old Job Back
NORFOLK, Va., April 12 (AP)—President Eisenhower will get a letter soon, asking him to relax his economy program just a tiny bit for the sake of a blind man.

James Alfred Neamond of Norfolk County, who's been blind since 1945, posted the letter yesterday. He hopes it won't escape the President's attention in all the stacks of mail such a pre-eminent personality must receive.

Because of the Eisenhower administration's economy program, Neamond has just lost the only job he can perform. He asks the President to help him get it back.

For five years after he lost his sight, Neamond stayed at home and looked after his two small daughters while his wife worked to support the family. Four of those years he spent working to build himself a home—while total blind.

In 1950, though, Neamond found a job at the ammunition depot at St. Juliens Creek near Norfolk. After he began his job operating a depriving machine, Neamond and his family were able to move into their new home.

The bad news came early last week, at a time when Mrs. Neamond and the children had been ill and medical expenses were piling up. Neamond and 20 other employees at the ammunition depot were being laid off because of the new administration's economy program.

Facing the loss of his paycheck at the end of April, Neamond appealed to the Virginia Commission for the Blind. The commission began an investigation but concluded regretfully there was nothing that could be done.

Yesterday, Neamond wrote the President.

"Jobs are few that a blind man can do," he wrote. "It took the Virginia Commission for the Blind five and a half years to find this one for me and it means everything. Since that time, my family has had an honest and clean living."

All he wants, he added, is "a little special consideration."

Tough Luck Dogs Cherry Blossom Festival To End

WASHINGTON, April 12 (INS)—The annual Cherry Blossom Festival ended today on the same tough luck on which it opened last week.

Rain cancelled the closing pageant. The festival opened without cherry blossoms.

Because of warm weather, they had come and gone ahead of schedule.

But one woman—the First Lady—made the festival a success. Mrs. Dwight D. Eisenhower crowned the queen, 18-year-old Janet Bailey of Akron, Ohio, Saturday night. Thousands of out-of-towners forgot the adverse effects of the elements on the festival's start and ending.

Perlman Fires Back At Beall

BALTIMORE, April 12 (AP)—Philip B. Perlman, former U. S. solicitor general, today accused Sen. Beall (R-Md.) of aiding California, Louisiana and Texas at the expense of Maryland and the 44 other states in the tidelands oil controversy.

Perlman's remarks in an interview were the latest in a continuing public debate between the two.

Perlman last week criticized President Eisenhower's promise to turn over the submerged off-shore lands to the states after former President Truman had claimed the tidelands as Federal property.

Beall answered by saying Perlman had reduced the tidelands debate "on the level of a street corner harangue."

Today Perlman contended that "nobody, in or out of Congress, has ever advanced any valid reason for enriching California, Louisiana and Texas at the expense of other states, and nobody including Sen. Beall can give any such reason. There is none."

He added that Beall "parrots the same old misleading and untrue propaganda, invented by one of the most powerful lobbies every organized to operate on Congress."

As to Beall's retort, Perlman said he was "in favor of street-corner harangues about this unsoundable, raid upon the national assets."

The value of oil under the off-shore submerged lands has been estimated by some congressmen to be as much as 300 billion dollars.

Convicts Remain Defiant In Cells But Quiet Down

STILLWATER, Minn., April 12 (AP)—Demonstrating convicts were still defiant in their cells at Stillwater prison today, but the noise and catcalls had become intermittent and perfunctory.

The 802 men locked in two of the institution's three cell blocks spent a chilly night in 30-degree weather, with the heating system turned off and plenty of ventilation through broken windows.

Edwin T. Swenson, the new warden who took over his duties after the disorders began yesterday, said "a minority of less than 10% of the 1,006 inmates have caused most of the damage."

Swenson said a full scale riot had been planned by ring leaders for yesterday. He added that Acting Warden Carl Jackson, who is regular superintendent of the St. Cloud Reformatory, got word of the plan and kept the men locked in their cells yesterday.

The demonstrating began after breakfasts were distributed to the men in their cells and it became apparent to them they were going to be kept separated.

Apparently, the demonstration climaxed unrest which has been noted among many of the prisoners since discipline was tightened up in the big prison last December.

Swenson, 50, who said he had been offered the post of warden at Stillwater, was at the prison, 12 miles northeast of St. Paul, yesterday to inspect the institution.

Swenson's former position was warden of the Maryland State Penitentiary at Baltimore. After the disorder began, he accepted the job at Stillwater.

Last night, Swenson said, he conferred by phone with Herald E. Dunnell, Maryland superintendent of prisons, who accepted his resignation.

Swenson supervised Army stockades at Ft. Knox, Ky., and Ft. Benjamin Harrison, Ind., during World War II. He told a reporter today he plans to establish firm control at Stillwater.

"I'm waiting now for the psychological and tactical moment to move in," he told a reporter.

Swenson said his first move, a screening of all prisoners, has already begun with observation of the men in the two disordered cell blocks.

Sick, Wounded Exchange Will Start April 20

Gen. Clark Silent On Communist Demands For Truce Meetings

MUNSAN, Monday, April 13 (AP)—The United Nations Command today studied long and carefully a Communist bid for immediate resumption of full scale truce talks on the basis of Red "concessions" which opened the way for a voluntary swap of sick and wounded prisoners beginning April 20.

Guarded hopes settled over the Allied camp that some settlement in the Korean truce negotiations—suspended since Oct. 8—may be in sight.

It appeared likely that the big talks on over-all prisoner swap might be resumed while the exchange of sick and wounded still is in progress.

Staff Officers Meet
Communist and Allied staff officers were due to meet at 11 a.m. (9 p.m., EST Sunday) in Panmunjom to ratify final agreements on administrative details of the sick and wounded exchange.

The Communists promised Sunday to turn over the first of 600 sick and wounded Allied prisoners next Monday, April 20. The 600 include 120 Americans. The Reds did not say what nationalities would be included in the first group of 100.

Despite Allied urgings, the Reds would not advance the date.

The U. N. Command also agreed to start homeward on the same day the first of 5,800 Communists willing to be repatriated.

The top U. N. commander, Gen. Mark Clark, was silent all through Sunday on impatient Red demands that the full-scale truce talks be resumed.

Clark Gets Reminder
Clark has told the Reds that successful negotiations on the exchange of sick and wounded must precede the renewal of the big talks. The Reds reminded him that the negotiations were now signed and sealed.

Peiping radio, official Communist mouthpiece, reported from Red truce headquarters at Kaesong that the first convoy of Allied sick and wounded would start southward from North Korean prison camps at 6 a.m. Tuesday and would arrive in Kaesong Thursday in a motor convoy of 23 vehicles. Then will come a long four-day wait until the actual exchange at Panmunjom on Monday morning.

The Red broadcast, heard in Tokyo, said the repatriation agreement guaranteed that the convoys carrying sick and injured will be immune from air and ground attack. It said each vehicle will be marked with red flags and stop-over locations with huge red crosses.

They seek not to eradicate poverty and its causes—but to exploit it and those who suffer it."

Prisoner Exchange Agreement Signed

Rear Adm. John Daniel (left) and Maj. Gen. Lee Sang Cho sign the agreement in behalf of U.N. and Communist forces, respectively, to exchange sick and wounded prisoners of war. Red Captors May Have 'Converted'
Some Americans

WASHINGTON, April 12 (AP)—Some American soldiers about to be returned from prisoner of war camps in Korea may appear to have been converted to communism, the Defense Department advised tonight.

With exchange of sick and wounded prisoners of war scheduled to start in Korea April 20, the department issued a "fact sheet" saying that "various techniques" used by Red captors on the minds of some Americans may have warped them to apparent acceptance of communism.

The results have shown up in letters various war prisoners have sent to relatives, and in broadcasts they have made from Red strongholds.

Cannot Be Condemned

"The Communists no doubt by their unremitting efforts ensnared some prisoners of war in their propaganda web," the department's statement said. "Some of them appear to have succumbed to the relentless Communist pressures, repetitious arguments, distorted and selected information and various inducements to accept, or at least repeat, many elements of Communist propaganda."

"Such captive soldiers cannot be condemned for co-operating with the Communists, at least outwardly," the statement continued, "for the alternative may appear to be torture or death—or both."

Most of the Red procedure described in the fact sheet was of the standard Communist propaganda type—"deceptively soft and ingratiating treatment" for prisoners who might be influenced, Communist indoctrination schools, opportunities to send letters home.

"Brain Wash" Technique
The department did not go into all details regarding the grim reference to "various" techniques.

But its formal announcement followed by about a week reports circulating in official Washington that the psychological device called "brain wash" probably was being used by the Reds on American prisoners.

This technique does not involve overt physical torture, but uses instead prolonged, unending questioning, brilliant lights poured on the subject's face, and repeated suggestion. The thoughts and philosophies of a life-time can sometimes be swept out of the mind and the doctrine of communism eased in to replace them.

Blind Man Asks Ike's Help
In Getting His Old Job Back

NORFOLK, Va., April 12 (AP)—President Eisenhower will get a letter soon, asking him to relax his economy program just a tiny bit for the sake of a blind man.

James Alfred Neamond of Norfolk County, who's been blind since 1945, posted the letter yesterday. He hopes it won't escape the President's attention in all the stacks of mail such a pre-eminent personality must receive.

Because of the Eisenhower administration's economy program, Neamond has just lost the only job he can perform. He asks the President to help him get it back.

For five years after he lost his sight, Neamond stayed at home and looked after his two small daughters while his wife worked to support the family. Four of those years he spent working to build himself a home—while totally without sight.

In 1950, though, Neamond found a job at the ammunition depot at St. Juliens Creek near Norfolk. After he began his job operating a depriving machine, Neamond and

Cherry Blossom
Festival To End

WASHINGTON, April 12 (INS)—The annual Cherry Blossom Festival ended today on the same tough-luck on which it opened last week.

Rain cancelled the closing pageant. The festival opened without cherry blossoms.

Because of warm weather, they had come and gone ahead of schedule.

But one woman—the First Lady—made the festival a success. Mrs. Dwight D. Eisenhower crowned the queen, 18-year-old Janet Bailey of Akron, Ohio, Saturday night. Thousands of out-of-towners forgot the adverse effects of the elements on the festival's start and ending.

Perlman Fires
Back At Beall

BALTIMORE, April 12 (AP)—Philip B. Perlman, former U. S. solicitor general, today accused Sen. Beall (R-Md) of aiding California, Louisiana and Texas at the expense of Maryland the 44 other states in the tidelands oil controversy.

Perlman's remarks in an interview were the latest in a continuing public debate between the two. Perlman last week criticized President Eisenhower's promise to turn over the submerged off-shore lands to the states after former President Truman had claimed the tidelands as Federal property.

Beall answered by saying Perlman had reduced the tidelands debate "to the level of a street corner harangue."

Today Perlman contended that "nobody, in or out of Congress, has ever advanced any valid reason for enriching California, Louisiana and Texas at the expense of other states, and nobody including Sen. Beall can give any such reason. There is none."

He added that Beall "parrots the same old misleading and untrue propaganda, invented by one of the most powerful lobbies every organized to operate on Congress."

As to Beall's retort, Perlman said he was "in favor of street-corner harangues about this unconscionable raid upon the national assets."

The value of oil under the off-shore submerged lands has been estimated by some congressmen to be as much as 300 billion dollars.

Sick, Wounded
Exchange Will

Communist Demands
For Truce Meetings

MUNSAN, Monday, April 13 (AP)—The United Nations Command today studied long and carefully a Communist bid for immediate resumption of full scale truce talks on the basis of Red "concessions" which opened the way for a voluntary swap of sick and wounded prisoners beginning April 20.

Guarded hopes settled over the Allied camp that some settlement in the Korean truce negotiations—suspended since Oct. 8—may be in sight.

It appeared likely that the big talks on over-all prisoner swap might be resumed while the exchange of sick and wounded still is in progress.

Staff Officers Meet

Communist and Allied staff officers were due to meet at 11 a.m. (9 p.m., EST Sunday) in Panmunjom to ratify final agreements on administrative details of the sick and wounded exchange.

The Communists promised Sunday to turn over the first of 600 sick and wounded Allied prisoners next Monday, April 20. The 600 include 120 Americans. The Reds did not say what nationalities would be included in the first group of 100.

Despite Allied urgings, the Reds would not advance the date.

The U. N. Command also agreed to start homeward on the same day the first of 5,800 Communists willing to be repatriated.

The top U. N. commander, Gen. Mark Clark, was silent all through Sunday on impatient Red demands that the full-scale truce talks be resumed.

Clark Gets Reminder

Clark has told the Reds that successful negotiations on the exchange of sick and wounded must precede the renewal of the big talks. The Reds reminded him that the negotiations were now signed and sealed.

Peiping radio, official Communist mouthpiece, reported from Red truce headquarters at Kaesong that the first convoy of Allied sick and wounded would start southward from North Korean prison camps at 6 a.m. Tuesday and would arrive in Kaesong Thursday in a motor convoy of 23 vehicles. Then will come a long four-day wait until the actual exchange at Panmunjom on Monday morning.

The Red broadcast, heard in Tokyo, said the repatriation agreement guaranteed that the convoys carrying sick and injured will be immune from air and ground attack. It said each vehicle will be marked with red flags and stop-over locations with huge red crosses.

225 U.N. Troops Will Stage 'Dry Run' Of POW Exchange

MUNSAN, April 13 (Monday) (INS)—Two hundred and twenty five "prisoners of war" go through a "dry run" today of the entire procedure of transporting and delivery of the exchange of ailing Korean War prisoners next Monday.

United States Marines, British Commonwealth troops and Republic of Korea personnel will simulate "sick and wounded captured personnel" to assure that there is no hitch in the procedure for the actual exchange.

The dry run will take place in two moves. The first operation will simulate the delivery of United Nations-held Communist personnel. The second move will rehearse the receipt of Communist-held Allied soldiers.

The rehearsal takes place along nine miles of the delivery and receipt route between Munsan and Panmunjom. It will not carry the practicing teams all the way to the actual repatriation site. A practice delivery and receipt area has been set up for the dry run about five miles south of Panmunjom.

The practice run will begin when 225 "patients," simulating Communist POWs for the first move, will be loaded on a hospital train at Munsan. A total of 40 will be "litter patients" and the remaining 185 will be "ambulatory patients."

The hospital train will make a 20-minute run to the train-ambulance switch point where the "patients" will be moved to ambulances and driven to the repatriation site.

At this point, a group of personnel will deliver the "prisoners" in groups of 25 to an imaginary Communist team.

When this first act of rehearsal is over, the same "patients" will be moved to the U. N. personnel receiving point. From this stage on, the "patients" will represent the U. N. prisoners being delivered by the Communists. Receiving teams will accept them and sign receipts.

Heart Operation Feats Described

ATLANTIC CITY, April 12 (AP)—Daring new feats of surgical plumbing and engineering within the human heart—some of them involving use of ingenious hardware—were described today.

The American Heart Association heard descriptions of effective use of such things as:

1. A new three-bladed knife for sight-unseen surgery on a sometimes defective "trapdoor" inside the aorta, the body's main trunk-line for blood through which the heart pumps some nine tons of blood every day.
2. Tiny plastic "bottles" inserted right into the heart to act as "ball valves" substituting for a defective valve between two chambers of the heart.
3. Rubber "wells" attached on the outside to a surgical opening in the heart wall to provide a reservoir for blood while the surgeon sticks his hand through the bottom of the well and operates inside the heart.
4. A new "patching" technique for repairing holes in tissue inside the heart without losing a drop of blood.

Gov. McKeldin Issues Economy Directive

Air Safety Talks Set

BERLIN, April 12 (INS)—Four power talks on air safety over Germany resume in Berlin tomorrow. Britain, France and the U. S. are expected to turn down a Soviet suggestion for a single broad air corridor from Western Berlin to the federal republic.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., April 12 (AP)—Gov. McKeldin has asked all state department heads to keep an eye on their spending—even to the point of eliminating their customary annual reports which are printed up in book form at what the governor said is "considerable expense."

The General Assembly, the governor noted, made "substantial reductions in the appropriations" for the 1954 fiscal year which begins next July 1.

But those reductions should not mean that any department should spend its "entire remaining appropriation merely for the sake of spending it," McKeldin said.

He pointed out that savings in fiscal 1954 would be important in "balancing the budget for the 1955 fiscal year and avoiding tax increases."

The two previous budgets handled by McKeldin were balanced through surpluses piled up because money received by the state through taxes exceeded advance estimates.

Wisdom Of College Probe Is Questioned

BALTIMORE, April 12 (AP)—A Washington newspaper editor yesterday questioned the wisdom of congressional investigations of American colleges with the argument that the investigators are "wholly lacking in intellectual competence for this undertaking."

Alan Barth, Associate Editor of the Washington Post and author of "The Loyalty of Free Men," delivered his remarks at a conference on "The College Library in a Changing World." The conference was held at the newly dedicated Julia Rogers library on the Goucher College campus.

What standards govern the Life Insurance companies in investing your money?

They consider three factors—
safety...diversification...interest return

In investing the money you put into life insurance, the companies are guided by these three important factors.

Safety, of course, is of primary importance in investing the funds which will eventually be paid out to you or your family. Actually these are in the nature of trust funds.

Secondly, the life insurance companies try to keep a healthy balance in their investments through diversification. They don't want to put all their "eggs in one basket."

Thirdly, the interest return on these investments is an important factor because this investment income helps keep down the cost of life insurance. The companies are constantly seeking to improve this return.

The companies also endeavor to place life insurance money where it does the most good for the country and the people.

For example, during the war a large part of life insurance funds went into Government securities to help win the war. When the war was over and there was a need for housing and civilian production, companies channeled funds into such investments as mortgages and securities of business and industry.

In every case, protecting the interests of the policyholder is the primary consideration.

What standards govern the Life Insurance companies in investing your money?

They consider three factors—
safety...diversification...interest return

In investing the money you put into life insurance, the companies are guided by these three important factors.

Safety, of course, is of primary importance in investing the funds which will eventually be paid out to you or your family. Actually these are in the nature of trust funds.

Secondly, the life insurance companies try to keep a healthy balance in their investments through diversification. They don't want to put all their "eggs in one basket."

Thirdly, the interest return on these investments is an important factor because this investment income helps keep down the cost of life insurance. The companies are constantly seeking to improve this return.

The companies also endeavor to place life insurance money where it does the most good for the country and the people.

For example, during the war a large part of life insurance funds went into Government securities to help win the war. When the war was over and there was a need for housing and civilian production, companies channeled funds into such investments as mortgages and securities of business and industry.

In every case, protecting the interests of the policyholder is the primary consideration.

"White" China And The UN

Prospects of peace in Korea inevitably raise the question of whether the Nationalist Chinese government on Formosa will continue to represent China in the United Nations. As President Eisenhower put it in his State of the Union message:

"This war (in Korea) is . . . clearly a part of the same calculated assault that the aggressor is simultaneously pressing in Indo-China and Malaya, and of the strategic situation that manifestly embraces the island of Formosa and the Chinese Nationalist forces there. The working out of any military solution to the Korean War will inevitably affect all those areas."

In his inaugural message Eisenhower had said he was ordering that the U. S. 7th Fleet "no longer be employed to shield Communist China" from attack from Formosa. But as long ago as March 15, 1952, the Formosa-Philippines area had been transferred from General Ridgway's Far East Command to the U. S. Pacific Naval Command, partly on the ground that Formosa had little direct connection with Korean operations. Chiang's operations against Red China's mainland thus far have been limited to guerilla raids and naval harassments.

The United States differs with many of its UN allies in its attitude vis-a-vis the two Chinese governments. The communiqué issued after the Truman-Attlee talks in Washington in late 1950 acknowledged:

"On the question of the Chinese seat in the UN, the two governments differ. The United Kingdom has recognized the Central People's (Communist) government and considers that its representatives should occupy China's seat in the United Nations. The United States . . . continues to oppose the seating of the Chinese Communist representatives in the United Nations."

The communiqué noted that both Chinese claimants to Formosa had insisted upon the validity of the Cairo Declaration on Formosa and had expressed reluctance to have the UN consider the issue. The U. S. and U. K. were agreed that "consideration of this question by the United Nations will contribute to these ends."

Some 17 UN members—about three-eighths of the membership—recognize the Chinese Communist government. Recognition does not in all cases—e.g., The United Kingdom—include exchange of diplomats. Great Britain, it should be noted, has been allowed to retain a consulate in Taipei, Formosa. Some 11 states not members of the United Nations recognize the Chinese Communists, including Ceylon, Finland, and Switzerland in addition to Soviet-dominated governments.

Three United Nations committees in January 1953 retained Nationalist Chinese representatives despite Soviet ouster attempts. The most recent full scale attempt to get rid of Chiang's representatives came in October 1952. Then the General Assembly's credentials committee voted, 6 to 3, to seat them, also to put off for the rest of the 1952 session "consideration of all proposals to exclude" them.

President F. D. Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill of Great Britain pledged return of Formosa to China in their conference with Chiang Kai-shek at Cairo in December 1943. The Chinese Nationalists occupied the island in 1945, after the surrender of Japan. The transfer to Chinese sovereignty has never been formalized, but Japan renounced claims on Formosa in a separate treaty with Chiang signed April 28, 1952.

The attitude of the United States toward Chiang has shifted from support in World War II to the post-war "hands off" policy and back to support. In January 1950 President Truman said: "The U. S. government will not provide military aid or advice to Chinese forces on Formosa." But by January 1951 the U. S. was sending arms, ammunition, eventually a military mission to Formosa.

Hand Signals Needed

Hand-signaling still is an important safety measure for all automobile drivers despite the fact that many cars now on the road are equipped with flashing directional indicators. The point is emphasized by a leading highway safety official, following analysis of recent statistics which showed that rear-end collisions and sideswiping still are among leading causes of highway accidents.

"Often," he declared, "flashing directional lights can be wrongly set or incorrectly interpreted by other drivers. For instance, a motorist intending to make a right turn might unwittingly set the indicator for a left turn. Or the indicator lever might stay in position and cause the signal to keep flashing for miles, confusing motorists ahead and behind. Then again, the bright sun falling upon the red glass of the indicators produces reflected light that can be quite confusing. Or worst of all, perhaps, the indicator lights might not be working because of burned out bulbs or broken wires."

"Absolute dependence, therefore, should not be placed upon direction indicators at all times by motorists. The hand signal still has its important place in safer driving practices. Motorists should use hand signals along with the electrical indicators as a double precaution."

"It is interesting to note all states require a hand signal be given. Many states also require a mechanical directional signal be given. There are two exceptions to this ruling. Maine and Massachusetts laws state either may be given."

On-the-road observance of motoring tendencies recently showed that very few drivers used hand signals at any time and that many gave no indication whatever of intention to turn right or left, to slow down or stop. Obviously, this is a vital practice that should be a personal safety obligation of everyone behind the wheel, day or night.

How To Keep Well

By Dr. T. R. Van Dellen

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual diseases.

A Cold Discussion

Most colds are no more than an inconvenience. They last a week and the more conscientious individual feels good enough to work, whereas others feel just bad enough to stay home. Even the complications, which were a bugaboo a decade ago, have been reduced to a minimum by our wonder drugs.

Many different microorganisms are responsible for respiratory tract infections. The common cold, for example, is caused principally by the virus; others are traceable to such old headlines as the streptococcus, staphylococcus, or pneumococcus. Because symptoms usually are the same, physicians find it more feasible to group these diseases under the title, upper respiratory infections (URI).

The nose and throat are most susceptible to infection. Involvement of the nasal passageways leads to sneezing and a feeling of congestion or obstruction. At first the passageway is blocked; later, obstruction subsides but drainage is more profuse. Because the openings leading to the sinuses and ears are located along this passageway, it is no trick at all for the causative agents to wander into these structures. As a result, sinusitis and middle ear infections may occur. These complications are more likely to arise in those who blow the nose hard enough to eliminate every drop of mucus. The increase in pressure in the nasal passageways drives the purulent material not only into the handkerchief but into the hearing apparatus and the sinuses. Sniffling is more what nature might order but is not ethical in polite society. In this manner, the mucus drops down the back of the throat and thereby follows the normal drainage system. On reaching the stomach, the germs are killed by the gastric acid. Furthermore, blowing deposits germs on the hands and handkerchief and this type of contact helps spread infection because everything that is handled is then contaminated.

Pain is a more common manifestation of sore throat. It varies from slight scratchiness to distress so severe that swallowing is torture. The throat is reddened and may or may not be swollen. Tonsillitis frequently co-exists and occasionally abscesses form. When infection travels from the throat into the larynx and bronchi, coughing or hoarseness ensues. In bronchitis, the membrane lining the bronchi is inflamed and swollen. Coughing is essential to help the lungs eliminate mucus and an ironical situation arises because most of us ask for cough medicine to suppress the process that nature developed to hasten recovery. Pneumonia represents an extension of infection from the bronchi into the walls of the air sacs. This is not more serious because it involves the framework of the lungs.

Respiratory infections tend to subside spontaneously, hence it is unwise to employ medicines that might make treatment worse than the disease. It is for this reason that most physicians recommend the salicylates, nose drops, steam inhalations, and bed rest to relieve symptoms without interfering with the immunity producing mechanism of the body. The wonder drugs are reserved for more serious cases and many physicians suggest their use on the third day of illness when fever fails to subside. Furthermore, there is new evidence to show that in the long run, complete recovery takes place faster when the antibiotics such as penicillin, aureomycin, or chloromycetin are not given.

Margaret Truman Hopes To Combine Politics With Singing; Nixon Keeps Busy Smoothing McCarthy-White House Relations; Truckers Want Representation

WASHINGTON.—Margaret Truman does not plan to forego her singing career, but she does plan to take on an additional career. She is going to follow in the footsteps of her famous father and take up politics.

She has her eye on the Congressional seat back in the old home town, Independence, Mo.—a seat now held by Congressman Jeffrey Hillelson, a man her father considers a black Republican. Mr. Hillelson was swept in on the Eisenhower landslide last fall, and Margaret's Pappy, who knows Missouri politics as well as he knows the Main Street of Independence, thinks it's a shame to have his home district almost sacrilegiously represented.

This is one reason why, when the Trumans come back from Hawaii, Margaret will carefully keep her residence in Independence, though her father and mother will take an apartment in a Park Avenue Hotel. This doesn't mean that the Ex-President is abandoning Independence. He isn't. But he plans to concentrate on writing his memoirs, and thinks New York is the best place in which to do it, though Mrs. Truman would prefer to live in Washington.

Nixon To Rescue

Young Vice President Nixon was the boy who privately kept his fingers in the political dike last week and stopped the growing flood of Eisenhower resentment against turbulent Joe McCarthy.

In fact, it was Nixon who threw the administration completely into reverse and managed to cut the ground out from under Mutual Security Administrator Harold Stassen after Stassen had delivered the toughest speech against McCarthy yet given by an Eisenhower spokesman.

It was also Nixon who, well before the Greek-shipping incident, had sold Ike on the idea of getting along with the McCarthy's, the Jenners and the Velde's. This was early in the Eisenhower administration. But as McCarthy began to pop off his pyrotechnics, and staged his bitter battle against Ambassador Bohlen, White House advisers began to wonder whether Nixon was right.

And when "Jumping Joe," as he's called in the White House, took upon himself the job of negotiating agreements with foreign shipowners, the President was reported by friends to have hit the ceiling. That was why his Mutual Security Administrator tangled with McCarthy publicly.

At this point, however, young Mr. Nixon came rushing back into the picture.

Mr. Nixon has not been exactly idle since he became vice president. He has been holding private breakfasts with new members of the House and Senate helping to get General "Slick" Persons, Ike's contact man with Capital Hill, better acquainted. Persons has been out of touch in recent years.

Nixon also sent his close friend, Congressman Don Jackson of California, with mercenary Congressman Harold Velde out to California in order to keep Velde from blowing off steam. This helped the administration with the churches. Nixon also attends two White House meetings regularly each week—Cabinet sessions and the National Security Council—and he's quite considerate in giving colleagues on Capitol Hill the general picture of what's happening.

He's also been telling the White House that Ike will have to live with McCarthy for some time, that it's easier to catch flies with molasses, and that this is not the time to tangle.

From this background, Nixon first helped arrange the lunch between McCarthy and Secretary of State Dulles, then got the counsel for McCarthy's committee, Francis Flanagan, together with State Department attorneys one hour before the luncheon to draft a face-saving statement following the luncheon.

At the luncheon, Dulles completely ignored a memo by his State Department advisers that McCarthy was acting illegally in negotiating with Greek shipowners.

NOTE—Eisenhower himself, meanwhile, has come around to a long-range policy regarding McCarthy. He believes he can't afford to break with the Wisconsin trouble-maker until he can first win over the Republican Right-Wing Senators who invariably support him. Once he has Taft safely in his corner, also Senator Bridges of New Hampshire, powerful chairman of the Senate Appropriations Committee, Ike feels he can afford to break with Jumping Joe.

Politics Vs. Transportation
Both the politicians and the transportation industry are watching to see whether politics or transportation will win out regarding Ike's next appointment to the Interstate Commerce Commission.

Last January, a delegation from the Trucking Industries Defense Committee, including Dave Beck, President of the Teamsters Union, Roy Fruehauf, head of Fruehauf Trailers, B. M. Seymour, and Arthur Condon, called on Eisenhower to urge the appointment of a trucking expert to the ICC. Though trucking is classed as the second biggest industry of the nation, it has had no representative on the body which is charged with regulating transportation.

Ike liked the idea, and has been considering the appointment of Frank Landsburg of Portland, Ore., who already is working for the ICC as a district director.

However, Gov. Arthur Langlie of Washington suddenly decided he wanted a friend of his on the ICC, recommended Owen Clark of Yakima, Wash., a respected, conservative lawyer with no transportation experience.

Methods Of Liberation

Nations at war and in difficulties with their neighbors use whatever tactics are available to them to accomplish their purposes. The spy is an ancient device, honored if uncaught, spurned as a bungler if disclosed. Nations have, from time to time, supported revolutionary movements in other countries, the United States, in the past, not being guiltless, particularly in Central and South America.

Now that we are going in for liberation, all sorts of committees and organizations are being established to liberate this and that. The theory is that they will send an "underground" into these various countries which will stimulate revolution. If an uprising occurs, the committee can say, "See what we've done!" If nothing happens, the less said about it the better.

Some of the liberation movements must, although figures are not available, receive support from public funds. I have not been able to discover how this is done. Maybe, some day I shall organize a committee to liberate somebody from something and I shall find out how this is processed. Meanwhile, the committees multiply and grow fruitful. It is like the committees that proliferate all over the government in Washington. There are so many of them that they might some day call a convention and get acquainted.

The liberation of a nation must eventually come from within. The people must want to be liberated from something obnoxious to them. If the so-called "liberation" comes from outside, it rarely takes root. It even gives the impression of a conquest.

The Russians recognized this as early as about 1920. They trained natives to do whatever job they wanted to have done in a country. Togliatti is an Italian. Thorez is French. Teledano is Mexican, etc., etc. They did not open an office in Paris to work in the United States, nor do they operate that way now. The auxiliary forces are natives, working within their own country.

And that brings up the subject of how to start a revolution to free the Russian people from the Communists. The assumption that a considerable part of the Russian population is anti-Kremlin cannot be borne out by any statistical data. The popularity of the present government is not measurable by any gauge with which we are familiar.

We can measure popularity in this country by an election. The figures show that Eisenhower was, on Election Day, more popular than Stevenson. In 1954, we shall have a congressional election which will give us another formal gauge of public opinion. On the side, some agencies take popularity polls which are more or less indicative of a trend, depending upon how skillfully the questions are asked and what the nature of the sample is.

There is nothing like that in Russia or Yugoslavia or China or in any of the Marxist countries. Therefore, popularity cannot be measured by any standards with which we are familiar. For all we know, the people who mourned Stalin meant it. They are accustomed to the life they know, anyone in Russia now 40 years of age having been four years old at the time of the revolution. Also, up to 1917, the Russians had always lived under an autocracy and were used to it. The various revolutionary movements were ineffectual until war broke the power of the Romanovs. The Russian people are getting the kind of autocracy which has been traditional in their long history.

I am not contending that there is no dissatisfaction in Russia or in any other countries. Dissatisfaction is the first evidence of a thought among humans. But a wide gulf stands between a consciousness of wrong and a decision to do something about it. At any rate, it would seem at this moment to be a hopeless task to engineer a revolution within Russia from New York or Paris or some such place and it makes no sense to burden the American taxpayer with the cost of such an endeavor.

On the other hand, the history of all empires shows a pattern which seems to be universal, namely, that when the emergent force of empire lessens, the countries on the periphery fall away. Thus, if Russia is to be weakened by the process of "liberation," it is in Czechoslovakia, Hungary, Poland and similar countries that work needs to be done. These countries have known freedom and they have not yet been fully absorbed in the Soviet system.

Matter Of Fact

By JOSEPH And STEWART ALSOP

Farewell To George Kennan

WASHINGTON

The best way to illustrate the real meaning of the retirement from government service of George S. Kennan is to go back to an incident which occurred in mid-summer, 1947. The Marshall Plan, which was to save Europe, was in the final incubation stage. A last, crucial question remained to be answered. Should the Soviet Union be invited to join the plan?

Asking the Soviets to join presented certain very great political advantages abroad. Yet, if the Soviets accepted, they could wreck the plan from within. Secretary of State George Marshall was puzzled and disturbed. Finally he called on his chief policy planner, George Kennan, for advice. Without hesitation, Kennan advised Marshall to ask the Russians to join. There was not, he said, the slightest chance that they would do so.

Marshall decided to accept the risk—and the Kremlin's violent refusal and savage disciplining of the Soviet satellites helped to solidify the West. This was one of this country's first major postwar diplomatic victories.

There are many such examples of the extraordinary prescience which Kennan has repeatedly displayed. Kennan also warned Marshall and others, for instance, that a strong Soviet reaction to the Marshall Plan was inevitable—and he said that this reaction seemed to him very likely to take the form of a Soviet-engineered coup in Czechoslovakia. Precisely this soon ensued.

After the Inchon victory in Korea, as these reporters can personally attest, Kennan was almost wholly alone in predicting flatly that either the Russians or the Chinese Communists would intervene openly if the United Nations offensive were pressed close to the Sino-Soviet borders. More recently, when Kennan was American Ambassador in Moscow last summer, he reported in cables to the State Department the existence of a powerful inner group in the Soviet government, which favored a major change in tactics toward the West. He outlined in substance precisely the change in tactics which the new Soviet regime has now introduced.

This ability to sense before hand the course the Kremlin is likely to adopt is not mere crystal-gazing. It derives from a lifetime of experience and study. Perhaps Kennan's most enduring contribution was his brilliant analysis of the nature of the Soviet state, contained in his now famous 8,000 word cable from Moscow in 1946.

This, remember, was still the time of the great illusion, when it was still fashionable (notably among those who now make a political living denouncing others for "softness towards Communism") to regard the Soviet Union as a sort of awkward and overgrown, but loveable and good-natured, democracy. In his long cable, which he sent as charge d'affaires of the Moscow Embassy, Kennan warned that the Soviet government, "a conspiracy within a conspiracy," was "committed fanatically to the belief that there can be no permanent modus vivendi with the United States." He warned that this government wished to see "our traditional way of life destroyed," and that it would seize any opportunity of extending Soviet power.

This cable, which is summarized in the Forrestal Diaries, is one of the great state papers of our time. By the same token it is a measure of the loss to the American government in Kennan's retirement.

In the State Department's announcement, it was implied that Kennan retired by his own wish. This is true as far as it goes, for Kennan, a quiet and contemplative man, is perfectly content to return to his writing. But it is only part of the truth. The whole truth is that Kennan would certainly have accepted a responsible post if one had been offered him—but none was offered.

There is no doubt understandable. Through no wish of his own, Kennan became a political symbol during the recent campaign. Much semantic nonsense was then spoken and written about the "policy of containment," with which Kennan's name was identified, versus the "policy of liberation." If Kennan had been nominated for an important post, the Congressional know-nothings would doubtless have attacked him as an "Acheson stooge"—despite the fact that Kennan resigned as chief State Department policy planner largely because he disagreed with certain basic Acheson policies.

With the bitter battle over Charles E. Bohlen fresh in their minds, it is no doubt natural that the Administration leaders had no wish to repeat the experience. Yet the unequalled knowledge of the Soviet state and the intuitive brilliance of George Kennan are assets which the American government cannot replace at any price. And it will be a sad day when the expert non-political government servant must give him loyalty, not to the government which he serves, but to the political party he thinks most likely to win the next election.

The working out of any military solution to the Korean War will inevitably affect all those areas."

In his inaugural message Eisenhower had said he was ordering that the U. S. 7th Fleet "no longer be employed to shield Communist China" from attack from Formosa. But as long ago as March 15, 1952, the Formosa-Philippines area had been transferred from General Ridgway's Far East Command to the U. S. Pacific Naval Command, partly on the ground that Formosa had little direct connection with Korean operations. Chiang's operations against Red China's mainland thus far have been limited to guerilla raids and naval harassments.

The United States differs with many of its UN allies in its attitude vis-a-vis the two Chinese governments. The communique issued after the Truman-Attlee talks in Washington in late 1950 acknowledged: "On the question of the Chinese seat in the UN, the two governments differ. The United Kingdom has recognized the Central People's (Communist) government and considers that its representatives should occupy China's seat in the United Nations. The United States . . . continues to oppose the seating of the Chinese Communist representatives in the United Nations."

The communique noted that both Chinese claimants to Formosa had insisted upon the validity of the Cairo Declaration on Formosa and had expressed reluctance to have the UN consider the issue. The U. S. and U. K. were agreed that "consideration of this question by the United Nations will contribute to these ends."

Some 17 UN members—about three-eighths of the membership—recognize the Chinese Communist government. Recognition does not in all cases—e.g., The United Kingdom—include exchange of diplomats. Great Britain, it should be noted, has been allowed to retain a consulate in Taipei, Formosa. Some 11 states not members of the United Nations recognize the Chinese Communists, including Ceylon, Finland, and Switzerland in addition to Soviet-dominated governments.

Three United Nations committees in January 1953 retained Nationalist Chinese representatives despite Soviet ouster attempts. The most recent full scale attempt to get rid of Chiang's representatives came in October 1952. Then the General Assembly's credentials committee voted, 6 to 3, to seat them, also to put off for the rest of the 1952 session "consideration of all proposals to exclude" them.

President F. D. Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill of Great Britain pledged return of Formosa to China in their conference with Chiang Kai-shek at Cairo in December 1943. The Chinese Nationalists occupied the island in 1945, after the surrender of Japan. The transfer to Chinese sovereignty has never been formalized, but Japan renounced claims on Formosa in a separate treaty with Chiang signed April 28, 1952.

The attitude of the United States toward Chiang has shifted from support in World War II to the post-war "hands off" policy and back to support. In January 1950 President Truman said: "The U. S. government will not provide military aid or advice to Chinese forces on Formosa." But by January 1951 the U. S. was sending arms, ammunition, eventually a military mission to Formosa.

Hand Signals Needed

Hand-signaling still is an important safety measure for all automobile drivers despite the fact that many cars now on the road are equipped with flashing directional indicators. The point is emphasized by a leading highway safety official, following analysis of recent statistics which showed that rear-end collisions and sideswiping still are among leading causes of highway accidents.

"Often," he declared, "flashing directional lights can be wrongly set or incorrectly interpreted by other drivers. For instance, a motorist intending to make a right turn might unwittingly set the indicator for a left turn. Or the indicator lever might stay in position and cause the signal to keep flashing for miles, confusing motorists ahead and behind. Then again, the bright sun falling upon the red glass of the indicators produces reflected light that can be quite confusing. Or worst of all, perhaps, the indicator lights might not be working because of burned out bulbs or broken wires."

"Absolute dependence, therefore, should not be placed upon direction indicators at all times by motorists. The hand signal still has its important place in safer driving practices. Motorists should use hand signals along with the electrical indicators as a double precaution."

"It is interesting to note all states require a hand signal be given. Many states also require a mechanical directional signal be given. There are two exceptions to this ruling. Maine and Massachusetts laws state either may be given."

On-the-road observance of motoring tendencies recently showed that very few drivers used hand signals at any time and that many gave no indication whatever of intention to turn right or left, to slow down or stop. Obviously, this is a vital practice that should be a personal safety obligation of everyone behind the wheel, day or night.

How To Keep Well

By Dr. T. R. Van Dellen

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual diseases.

A Cold Discussion

Most colds are no more than an inconvenience. They last a week and the more conscientious individual feels good enough to work, whereas others feel just bad enough to stay home. Even the complications, which were a bug-aboo a decade ago, have been reduced to a minimum by our wonder drugs.

Many different microorganisms are responsible for respiratory tract infections. The common cold, for example, is caused principally by the virus; others are traceable to such old headlines as the streptococcus, staphylococcus, or pneumococcus. Because symptoms usually are the same, physicians find it more feasible to group these diseases under the title, upper respiratory infections (URI).

The nose and throat are most susceptible to infection. Involvement of the nasal passageways leads to sneezing and a feeling of congestion or obstruction. At first the passageway is blocked; later, obstruction subsides but drainage is more profuse. Because the openings leading to the sinuses and ears are located along this passageway, it is no trick at all for the causative agents to wander into these structures. As a result, sinusitis and middle ear infections may occur. These complications are more likely to arise in those who blow the nose hard enough to eliminate every drop of mucus. The increase in pressure in the nasal passageways drives the purulent material not only into the handkerchief but into the hearing apparatus and the sinuses. Sniffling is more what nature might order but is not ethical in polite society. In this manner, the mucus drops down the back of the throat and thereby follows the normal drainage system. On reaching the stomach, the germs are killed by the gastric acid. Furthermore, blowing deposits germs on the hands and handkerchief and this type of contact helps spread infection because everything that is handled is then contaminated.

Pain is a more common manifestation of sore throat. It varies from slight scratchiness to distress so severe that swallowing is torture. The throat is reddened and may or may not be swollen. Tonsillitis frequently co-exists and occasionally abscesses form. When infection travels from the throat into the larynx and bronchi, coughing or hoarseness ensues. In bronchitis, the membrane lining the bronchi is inflamed and swollen. Coughing is essential to help the lungs eliminate mucus and an ironical situation arises because most of us ask for cough medicine to suppress the process that nature developed to hasten recovery. Pneumonia represents an extension of infection from the bronchi into the walls of the air sacs. This is not more serious because it involves the framework of the lungs.

Respiratory infections tend to subside spontaneously, hence it is unwise to employ medicines that might make treatment worse than the disease. It is for this reason that most physicians recommend the salicylates, nose drops, steam inhalations, and bed rest to relieve symptoms without interfering with the immunity producing mechanism of the body. The wonder drugs are reserved for more serious cases and many physicians suggest their use on the third day of illness when fever fails to subside. Furthermore, there is new evidence to show that in the long run, complete recovery takes place faster when the antibiotics such as penicillin, aureomycin, or chloromycetin are not given.

Margaret Truman Hopes To Combine Politics With Singing; Nixon Keeps Busy Smoothing McCarthy-White House Relations; Truckers Want Representation

WASHINGTON.—Margaret Truman does not plan to forsake her singing career, but she does plan to take on an additional career. She is going to follow in the footsteps of her famous father and take up politics.

She has her eye on the Congressional seat back in the old home town, Independence, Mo.—a seat now held by Congressman Jeffrey Hillelson, a man her father considers a black Republican. Mr. Hillelson was swept in on the Eisenhower landslide last fall, and Margaret's Pappy, who knows Missouri politics as well as he knows the Main Street of Independence, thinks it's a shame to have his home district almost sacrilegiously represented.

This is one reason why, when the Trumans came back from Hawaii, Margaret will carefully keep her residence in Independence, though her father and mother will take an apartment in a Park Avenue Hotel. This doesn't mean that the Ex-President is abandoning Independence. He isn't. But he plans to concentrate on writing his memoirs, and thinks New York is the best place in which to do it, though Mrs. Truman would prefer to live in Washington.

Nixon To Rescue

Young Vice President Nixon was the boy who privately kept his fingers in the political dice last week and stopped the growing flood of Eisenhower resentment against turbulent Joe McCarthy.

In fact, it was Nixon who threw the administration completely into reverse and managed to cut the ground out from under Mutual Security Administrator Harold Stassen after Stassen had delivered the toughest speech against McCarthy yet given by an Eisenhower spokesman.

It was also Nixon who, well before the Greek-shipping incident, had sold Ike on the idea of getting along with the McCarthys, the Jenners and the Veldes. This was early in the Eisenhower administration. But as McCarthy began to pop off his pyrotechnics, and staged his bitter battle against Ambassador Bohlen, White House advisers began to wonder whether Nixon was right.

And when "Jumping Joe" as he's called in the White House, took upon himself the job of negotiating agreements with foreign shipowners, the President was reported by friends to have hit the ceiling. That was why his Mutual Security Administrator tangled with McCarthy publicly.

At this point, however, young Mr. Nixon came rushing back into the picture.

Mr. Nixon has not been exactly idle since he became Vice president. He has been holding private breakfasts with new members of the House and Senate helping to get General "Slick" Persons, Ike's contact man with Capital Hill, better acquainted. Persons has been out of touch in recent years.

Nixon also sent his close friend, Congressman Don Jackson of California, with mercurial Congressman Harold Velde out to California in order to keep Velde from blowing off steam. This helped the Administration with the churches. Nixon also attends two White House meetings regularly each week—Cabinet sessions and the National Security Council—and he's quite considerate in giving colleagues on Capitol Hill the general picture of what's happening.

He's also been telling the White House that Ike will have to live with McCarthy for some time, that it's easier to catch flies with molasses, and that this is not the time to tangle.

From this background, Nixon first helped arrange the lunch between McCarthy and Secretary of State Dulles, then got the counsel for McCarthy's committee, Francis Flanagan, together with State Department attorneys one hour before the luncheon to draft a face-saving statement following the luncheon.

At the luncheon, Dulles completely ignored a memo by his State Department advisers that McCarthy was acting illegally in negotiating with Greek shipowners.

NOTE — Eisenhower himself, meanwhile, has come around to a long-range policy regarding McCarthy. He believes he can't afford to break with the Wisconsin trouble-maker until he can first win over the Republican Right-Wing Senators who invariably support him. Once he has Taft safely in his corner, as Senator Bridges of New Hampshire, powerful chairman of the Senate Appropriations Committee, Ike feels he can afford to break with Jumping Joe.

Better Chances For Youth

Young people claim that they have not the opportunities which their parents had. They talk about the "big corporations" doing all the business and supplying all the jobs, affording little chance to small businesses. I don't admit this to be true. There are more opportunities now than ever before for young men to go into business for themselves if they will work ten hours a day, for six days a week, and save money, the same as I had to do.

Good salesmen are needed now more than ever. Good salesmen backed by good advertising are the life blood of every business. They need no labor unions and are always well paid. They are never found amongst the unemployed. Hence, for their hard work "pounding pavements and ringing door bells" they need not ever fear being caught by installment purchases or any financial difficulties, under any conditions. In view of the news from Korea, these salesmen should now work harder than ever. In short, I believe we may sometime suffer from unemployment, but a Korean peace need not bring this about. The free nations will still be fighting Russia's determination for world supremacy. Therefore, no one should now get panicky over the prospects for a Korean peace. We should think of our boys over there and thank God for the hopes of peace.

Ike liked the idea, and has been considering the appointment of Frank Landberg of Portland, Ore., who already is working for the ICC as a district director. However, Gov. Arthur Langlie of Washington suddenly decided he wanted a friend of his on the ICC, recommended Owen Clark of Yakima, Wash., a respected, conservative lawyer with no transportation experience. Langlie happens to be one of Nations at war and in difficulties with their neighbors use whatever tactics are available to them to accomplish their purposes. The spy is an ancient device, honored if uncaught, spurned as a bungler if disclosed. Nations have, from time to time, supported revolutionary movements in other countries, the United States, in the past, not being guiltless, particularly in Central and South America.

Now that we are going in for liberation, all sorts of committees and organizations are being established to liberate this and that. The theory is that they will send an "underground" into these various countries which will stimulate revolution. If an uprising occurs, the committee can say, "See what we've done!" If nothing happens, the less said about it the better.

Some of the liberation movements must, although figures are not available, receive support from public funds. I have not been able to discover how this is done. Maybe, some day I shall organize a committee to liberate somebody from something and I shall find out how this is processed. Meanwhile, the committees multiply and grow fruitful. It is like the committees that proliferate all over the government in Washington. There are so many of them that they might some day call a convention and get acquainted.

The liberation of a nation must eventually come from within. The people must want to be liberated from something obnoxious to them. If the so-called "liberation" comes from outside, it rarely takes root. It even gives the impression of a conquest.

The Russians recognized this as early as about 1920. They trained natives to do whatever job they wanted to have done in a country. Togliatti is an Italian, Thorez is French, Toledano is Mexican, etc., etc. They did not open an office in Paris to work in the United States, nor do they operate that way now. The auxiliary forces are natives, working within their own country.

And that brings up the subject of how to start a revolution to free the Russian people from the Communists. The assumption that a considerable part of the Russian population is anti-Kremlin cannot be borne out by any statistical data. The popularity of the present government is not measurable by any gauge with which we are familiar.

We can measure popularity in this country by an election. The figures show that Eisenhower was, on Election Day, more popular than Stevenson. In 1954, we shall have a congressional election which will give us another formal gauge of public opinion. On the side, some agencies take popularity polls which are more or less indicative of a trend, depending upon how skillfully the questions are asked and what the nature of the sample is.

There is nothing like that in Russia or Yugoslavia or China or in any of the Marxist countries. Therefore, popularity cannot be measured by any standards with which we are familiar. For all we know, the people who mourned Stalin meant it. They are accustomed to the life they know, anyone in Russia now 40 years of age having been four years old at the time of the revolution. Also, up to 1917, the Russians had always lived under an autocracy and were used to it. The various revolutionary movements were ineffectual until war broke the power of the Romanovs. The Russian people are getting the kind of autocracy which has been traditional in their long history.

I am not contending that there is no dissatisfaction in Russia or in any other countries. Dissatisfaction is the first evidence of thought among humans. But a wide gulf stands between a consciousness of wrong and a decision to do something about it. At any rate, it would seem at this moment to be a hopeless task to engineer a revolution within Russia from New York or Paris or some such place and it makes no sense to burden the American taxpayer with the cost of such an endeavor.

On the other hand, the history of all empires shows a pattern which seems to be universal, namely, that when the emergent force of empire lessens, the countries on the periphery fall away. Thus, if Russia is to be weakened by the process of "liberation," it is in Czechoslovakia, Hungary, Poland and similar countries that work needs to be done. These countries have known freedom and they have not yet been fully absorbed in the Soviet system.

Matter Of Fact

By JOSEPH And STEWART ALSOP

Farewell To George Kennan

WASHINGTON

The best way to illustrate the real meaning of the retirement from government service of George S. Kennan is to go back to an incident which occurred in mid-summer, 1947. The Marshall Plan, which was to save Europe, was in the final incubation stage. A last, crucial question remained to be answered. Should the Soviet Union be invited to join the plan?

Asking the Soviets to join presented certain very great political advantages abroad. Yet, if the Soviets accepted, they could wreck the plan from within. Secretary of State George Marshall was puzzled and disturbed. Finally he called on his chief policy planner, George Kennan, for advice. Without hesitation, Kennan advised Marshall to ask the Russians to join. There was not, he said, the slightest chance that they would do so.

Marshall decided to accept the risk—and the Kremlin's violent refusal and savage disciplining of the Soviet satellites helped to solidify the West. This was one of this country's first major postwar diplomatic victories.

There are many such examples of the extraordinary prescience which Kennan has repeatedly displayed. Kennan also warned Marshall and others, for instance, that a strong Soviet reaction to the Marshall Plan was inevitable—and he said that this reaction seemed to him very likely to take the form of a Soviet-engineered coup in Czechoslovakia. Precisely this soon ensued.

After the Inchon victory in Korea, as these reporters can personally attest, Kennan was almost wholly alone in predicting flatly that either the Russians or the Chinese Communists would intervene openly if the United Nations offensive were pressed close to the Sino-Soviet borders. More recently, when Kennan was American Ambassador in Moscow last summer, he reported in cables to the State Department the existence of a powerful inner group in the Soviet government, which favored a major change in tactics toward the West. He outlined in substance precisely the change in tactics which the new Soviet regime has now introduced.

This ability to sense before hand the course the Kremlin is likely to adopt is not mere crystal-gazing. It derives from a lifetime of experience.

The B-C Eisenhowerites — namely an Ike-rooter "Before Chicago." So Ike is now torn between politics on one hand and transportation on the other.

ence and study. Perhaps Kennan's most enduring contribution was his brilliant analysis of the nature of the Soviet state, contained in his now famous 8,000 word cable from Moscow in 1946.

This, remember, was still the time of the great illusion, when it was still fashionable (notably among those who now make a political living denouncing others for "softness towards Communism") to regard the Soviet Union as a sort of awkward and overgrown, but loveable and good-natured, democracy. In his long cable, which he sent as charge d'affaires of the Moscow Embassy, Kennan warned that the Soviet government, "a conspiracy within a conspiracy," was "committed fanatically to the belief that there can be no permanent modus vivendi with the United States." He warned that this government wished to see "our traditional way of life destroyed," and that it would seize any "opportunity of extending Soviet power."

This cable, which is summarized in the Forrestal Diaries, is one of the great state papers of our time. By the same token it is a measure of the loss to the American government in Kennan's retirement.

In the State Department's announcement, it was implied that Kennan retired by his own wish. This is true as far as it goes. For Kennan, a quiet and contemplative man, is perfectly content to return to his writing. But it is only part of the truth. The whole truth is that Kennan would certainly have accepted a responsible post if one had been offered him—but none was offered.

There is no doubt understandable. Through no wish of his own, Kennan became a political symbol during the recent campaign. Much semantic nonsense was then spoken and written about the "policy of containment," with which Kennan's name was identified, versus the "policy of liberation." If Kennan had been nominated for an important post, the Congressional know-nothings would doubtless have attacked him as an "Acheson stooge"—despite the fact that Kennan resigned as chief State Department policy planner largely because he disagreed with certain basic Acheson policies.

With the bitter battle over Charles E. Bohlen fresh in their minds, it is no doubt natural that the Administration leaders had no wish to repeat the experience. Yet the unequalled knowledge of the Soviet state and the intuitive brilliance of George Kennan are assets which the American government cannot replace at any price. And it will be a sad day when the expert non-political government servant must give him loyalty, not to the government which he serves, but to the political party he thinks most likely to win the next election.

County Ranks Third In Md. U.S. Bond Sale

Allegany County ranked third among the counties of Maryland in the sale of Series E and H U. S. Savings Bonds during the first quarter of 1953.

State Chairman John A. Luetkemeyer reported the total for this county during January, February and March is $607,762.

Baltimore County was highest with $1,694,780 while Montgomery County was second with $643,695.

Washington County was fourth, behind Allegany, with $602,434; Prince Georges, fifth, $544,375; Harford, sixth, $543,400, and Anne Arundel, seventh, $517,082.

The first three counties followed in the same ranking as their quotas for the year. Baltimore County has the highest quota, $7,366,000. Montgomery, second, with $3,301,000 while Allegany County is third with $2,900,000.

Allegany County's sales during the first quarter represent 20.0 per cent of its annual goal.

In the state during the first quarter sales hit $16,057,658, an increase of 24.8 per cent over the first quarter of 1952.

Washington County has achieved 25.6 per cent of its annual quota of $2,326,000 while Garrett County has bought 15.7 per cent of its quota of $380,000.

State Chairman Luetkemeyer pointed out that as rapidly as the H Bond is made known to the people of the state increased investments will follow.

He said the H Bond, new companion piece to the popular E's, is a nine-year and eight-month current income investment available to individuals, with investment yields about the same as the E.

The H. Bond, being an ideal investment for larger amounts, $500 being the minimum denomination, interest is paid every six months by the U. S. Treasury, to the purchaser. It is redeemable at par at the owner's option at any time after six months from the issue date.

Four Admitted To Hospital After Mishap

Four persons, three adults and a child, were admitted to Memorial Hospital Saturday evening after the car in which they were riding crashed on Polish Mountain.

State Trooper Robert Wolford said the 1952 sedan driven by David Stoltzfus, Chester, Pa., went out of control and struck a telephone pole.

The car was heading west toward Cumberland and was descending the steep grade of the western slope of Polish Mountain when the brakes gave way, Trooper Wolford reported.

Stoltzfus was hospitalized with a dislocated left knee cap.

The other three occupants, of the machine, Mrs. Eliza Hostetter, 47, of Goshen, Ind.; Mrs. Sadie King, 44, of Honeybrook, Pa., and her six-year-old daughter, Ruth, were also admitted to the hospital.

Mrs. Hostetter suffered a fractured left shoulder; Mrs. King, severe lacerations of the head, and the child, a fractured jaw.

Damage to the auto was estimated at $1,200 by Trooper Wolford.

In other local mishaps, a man and a child were admitted to hospitals with injuries received around their homes.

James DeMay, 145 Independence Street, suffered an eye injury while working at his home. He was admitted to Sacred Heart Hospital. Attendants said a screw driver he was using slipped and struck his eye.

Admitted to Memorial Hospital Saturday evening was Paulette Duncan, three years old, who cut the tendon of her right arm when she fell on broken glass. She was taken to the hospital by her mother, Mrs. Wilma Duncan, 215 Federal Street.

Approximately 96,000 new freight cars and 2,550 diesel locomotives were produced in the United States in 1951.

County Ranks Third In Md. U.S. Bond Sale

Allegany County ranked third among the counties of Maryland in the sale of Series E and H U. S. Savings Bonds during the first quarter of 1953.

State Chairman John A. Luetkemeyer reported the total for this county during January, February and March is $607,762.

Baltimore County was highest with $1,694,180 while Montgomery County was second with $643,695.

Washington County was fourth, behind Allegany, with $602,434; Prince Georges, fifth, $544,375; Harford, sixth, $543,400, and Anne Arundel, seventh, $517,082.

The first three counties followed in the same ranking as their quotas for the year. Baltimore County has the highest quota, $7,366,000, Montgomery, second, with $3,301,000 while Allegany County is third with $2,900,000.

Allegany County's sales during the first quarter represent 20.0 per cent of its annual goal.

In the state during the first quarter sales hit $16,057,658, an increase of 24.8 per cent over the first quarter of 1952.

Washington County has achieved 25.6 per cent of its annual quota of $2,326,000 while Garrett County has bought 15.7 per cent of its quota of $380,000.

State Chairman Luetkemeyer pointed out that as rapidly as the H Bond is made known to the people of the state increased investments will follow.

He said the H Bond, new companion piece to the popular E's, is a nine-year and eight-month current income investment available to individuals, with investment yields about the same as the E.

The H Bond, being an ideal investment for larger amounts, $300 being the minimum denomination, interest is paid every six months by the U. S. Treasury, to the purchaser. It is redeemable at par at the owner's option at any time after six months from the issue date.

The Old Second Guesser

by John Wheeler

You Don't Have To Swallow These

The man told me these tales. Maybe he used to be a ghost writer for "Believe-It-or-Not" Ripley. Hold your hats. Here we go.

John Wheeler

In the museum at Kingston, Jamaica, is the skeleton of a shark's mouth with a wad of documents stuffed inside it. By all accounts, it represents the greatest coincidence in recorded history, a billion-to-one chance that would never happen again.

About 150 years ago, the British Atlantic Fleet was blockading the American Coast in an effort to cut off the profitable rum and molasses trade with the West Indies carried on by seafaring New England Yankees. This was almost a matter of life and death to London, because its war against Napoleon was financed by the sale of sugar and spices, and Jamaica alone provided about one-third of the revenue of the Crown.

The American shippers started to trade in spices, themselves, and the English feared their monopoly would be broken. Between Cuba and Haiti, a British patrol was set up, consisting of one ship of the line and one frigate.

On a bright morning, a sail was sighted, and the Admiral signaled the frigate to intercept her. The ship was American by the cut of her jib, construction, and design, but, when boarded, her master produced papers to show she was of Portuguese registry. The captain, at the conclusion of his search lasting an hour, reported that the vessel appeared to be from Portugal, and she ought to be allowed to proceed. At this point the British admiral replied, "Seize her. She is American. We have her papers here."

The amazed frigate officer was rowed alongside the flagship to find out what had happened. It turned out a sailor had been trailing a line for shark and had gotten a strike. When the fish was hauled aboard, he or she was cut open and in the stomach was found a full set of United States ship's papers.

The schooner was escorted into Kingston, and a prize court, on the basis of the shark's delivery of her papers, sustained the seizure. The American captain admitted he had hastily thrown the documents over the side. According to my informant, the shark's mouth—with the papers inside it—is still on exhibition to prove that the strangest things in the world are sometimes true.

It is a fundamental law of the land and sea that you cannot transfer your danger to another. Thus to illustrate, around 1890, a madman got into the office of Russell Sage, who was supposed to be worth a hundred million, and handed him a note reading, "If you don't give me $50,000 at once, I'll drop my bag of explosives, and we'll both be blown to bits."

Mr. Sage, one of the slowest men in history with a buck until Jack Benny got his reputation, promptly pushed his clerk, Norcross, between him and the intruder. The gent meant what he said all right, for he let go of his satchel, and BANG! He was killed instantly, and the clerk was badly injured. The millionaire was practically unscathed.

Norcross sued Sage for shoving him in front of himself to take the brunt of the blast. The case went up to the Court of Appeals and finally ruled if Sage knew what he was doing, he had to pay his employee for his injuries, but, if his act had been a reflex one, like duck-producing papers to show she was of Portuguese registry, a jury later decided Sage acted on impulse and Norcross didn't even get the price of his crutches.

The Old Second Guesser

by John Wheeler

You Don't Have To Swallow These

The man told me these tales. Maybe he used to be a ghost writer for "Believe-It-or-Not" Ripley. Hold your hats. Here we go.

In the museum at Kingston, Jamaica, is the skeleton of a shark's mouth with a wad of documents stuffed inside it. By all accounts, it represents the greatest coincidence in recorded history, a billion-to-one chance that would never happen again.

About 150 years ago, the British Atlantic Fleet was blockading the American Coast in an effort to cut off the profitable rum and molasses trade with the West Indies carried on by seafaring New England Yankees. This was almost a matter of life and death to London, because its war against Napoleon was financed by the sale of sugar and spices, and Jamaica alone provided about one-third of the revenue of the Crown.

The American shippers started to trade in spices, themselves, and the English feared their monopoly would be broken. Between Cuba and Haiti, a British patrol was set up, consisting of one ship of the line and one frigate.

On a bright morning, a sail was sighted, and the Admiral signaled the frigate to intercept her. The ship was American by the cut of her jib, construction, and design, but, when boarded, her master produced papers to show she was of Portuguese registry. The captain, at the conclusion of his search lasting an hour, reported that the vessel appeared to be from Portugal, and she ought to be allowed to proceed. At this point the British admiral replied:

"Seize her. She is American. We have her papers here."

The amazed frigate officer was rowed alongside the flagship to find out what had happened. It turned out a sailor had been trailing a line for a shark and had gotten a strike. When the fish was hauled aboard, he or she was cut open and in the stomach was found a full set of United States ship's papers. The schooner was escorted into Kingston, and a prize court, on the basis of the shark's delivery of her papers, sustained the seizure. The American captain admitted he had hastily thrown the documents over the side. According to my informant, the shark's mouth—with the papers inside it—is still on exhibition to prove that the strangest things in the world are sometimes true.

It is a fundamental law of the land and sea that you cannot transfer your danger to another. Thus to illustrate, around 1890, a madman got into the office of Russell Sage, who was supposed to be worth a hundred million, and handed him a note reading:

"If you don't give me $50,000 at once, I'll drop my bag of explosives, and we'll both be blown to bits."

Mr. Sage, one of the slowest men in history with a buck until Jack Benny got his reputation, promptly pushed his clerk, Norcross, between him and the intruder. The clerk meant what he said all right, for he let go of his satchel, and BANG! He was killed instantly, and the clerk was badly injured. The millionaire was practically unscathed.

Norcross sued Sage for shoving him in front of himself to take the brunt of the blast. The case went up to the Court of Appeals a half-dozen times, and the judges finally ruled if Sage knew what he was doing, he had to pay his employee for his injuries, but, if his act had been a reflex one, like ducking, he was not responsible. A jury later decided Sage acted on impulse and Norcross didn't even get the price of his crutches.

The Canary Islands gets their name from the extinct species of huge dog found there by early explorers, the Latin word for dog being canis.

The first five-cent automobile fare in the United States was originated in Phoenix, Ariz., when the original "jitney bus" was started.

Florida has the longest tidal shore line of any state in the United States.

To look slimmer, more graceful and more beautifully contoured, you must keep your muscles well-toned!

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

Here's what no charmer should ever forget: The better your muscle tone, the better your figure proportions — and the slimmer you are going to look no matter what you weigh!

When it comes to figure beauty, altogether too many women think only in terms of pounds. And even after strenuous reducing they are disappointed to find on looking in their mirrors that their figure, though slimmer, is just as ill-proportioned as it was before, with chin, bosom, derriere, abdomen and thighs flabbier.

Figure Beauty

Figure beauty lies in keeping all muscles in your body toned so they hold flesh — a lot or a little — close to the bones in neat contours. Here's why: Every muscle in your body is composed of tiny bundles of elastic fibers. Each is assembled into a homogenous group. Every group is a flexible mass that can be strengthened or weakened according to your treatment of it.

If, for instance, you allow your abdominal muscles to deteriorate through lack of exercise, you can only expect a bouncy, slack and thickened stomach, waist and diaphragm. And so it goes throughout your entire body.

To Have And To Hold

To have and to hold toned muscles, there is only one answer: A daily workout specifically designed for the job. Natural toners are a brisk half-hour walk or swim, cutting the grass or gardening, tennis, golf or riding horseback. The most important factor is making sure that all muscles are brought into play.

If these activities are not convenient, you can do no better than run through your indoor routine, "Dance Through A Week To Beauty," a series of dance steps so designated that your entire body is protected against flabbiness. For mailing instructions, read the box below. For a lovelier body, be faithful to the routine.

Tomorrow: Natural looking lip beauty.

Created EXCLUSIVELY for readers of this column, delightful solo dance steps anyone can do. They bring increased grace and reduced measurements as proved by test. Write to Secrets of Charm in care of this paper, enclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope and 10c in coin to cover costs for a copy of DANCE THROUGH A WEEK TO BEAUTY. Protected 1953 by John F. To look slimmer, more graceful and more beautifully contoured, you must keep your muscles well-toned!

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

Here's what no charmer should ever forget: The better your muscle tone, the better your figure proportions — and the slimmer you are going to look no matter what you weigh!

When it comes to figure beauty, altogether too many women think only in terms of pounds. And even after stringent reducing they are disappointed to find on looking in their mirrors that their figure, though slimmer, is just as ill-proportioned as it was before, with chin, bosom, derriere, abdomen and thighs flabbier.

Figure beauty lies in keeping all muscles in your body toned so they hold flesh—a lot or a little—close to the bones in neat contours. Here's why: Every muscle in your body is composed of tiny bundles of elastic fibers. Each is assembled into a homogenous group. Every group is a flexible mass that can be strengthened or weakened according to your treatment of it.

If, for instance, you allow your abdominal muscles to deteriorate through lack of exercise, you can only expect a bouncy, slack and thickened stomach, waist and diaphragm. And so it goes throughout your entire body.

To Have And To Hold

To have and to hold toned muscles, there is only one answer: A daily workout specifically designed for the work. Natural toners are a brisk half-hour walk or swim, cutting the grass or gardening, tennis, golf or riding horseback. The most important factor is making sure that all muscles are brought into play.

If these activities are not convenient, you can do no better than run through our indoor routine.

"Dance Through a Week To Beauty," a series of dance steps so designated that your entire body is protected against flabbiness. For mailing instructions, read the box below. For a lovelier body, be faithful to the routine.

Tomorrow: Natural looking lip beauty.

Created EXCLUSIVELY for readers of this column, delightful solo dance steps anyone can do. They bring increased grace and reduced measurements as proved by test. Write to Secrets of Charm in care of this paper, enclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope and 10¢ coin to cover costs for a copy of DANCE THROUGH A WEEK TO BEAUTY. Protected 1953 by John F. Major Leagues Open Season Today; Hogan Cops Masters Title

Yankees Start 1953 Campaign In Washington

Braves At Cincinnati Today; Eight Games Scheduled Tuesday

By JACK HAND NEW YORK, April 12 (AP)—With a break from the weatherman the baseball season opens tomorrow at Washington and Cincinnati and swings into full scale operation Tuesday with an eight-game program.

Milwaukee has supplanted Boston in the National League and 54 per cent of last year's opening day players have left for other clubs, leagues or the military services.

But the New York Yankees and Brooklyn Dodgers still are favored. Here is the opening schedule:

MONDAY American League New York at Washington, 3 p.m. National League Milwaukee at Cincinnati, 3 p.m. TUESDAY National League St. Louis at Milwaukee, 2:30 p.m. Pittsburgh at Brooklyn, 1:30 p.m. New York at Philadelphia, 1:30 p.m. Cincinnati at Chicago, 2:30 p.m. American League Chicago at Cleveland, 3 p.m. Philadelphia at New York, 2 p.m. Detroit at St. Louis (night), 9:30 p.m. Washington at Boston, 2 p.m.

If pre-game forecasts aren't too optimistic, a turnout of 291,000 will watch the two-day program. That would be quite a gain on last year's attendance of 172,322 for eight games but short of the record of 331,783 set in the giddy days of 1948.

Nixon Replaces Ike Things are so different that there even is a new cast in the "presidential" opener at Griffith Stadium. Harry Truman has gone on the "retired" list and his successor, President Eisenhower, is golfing in Augusta, Ga., so Vice President Nixon will toss out the first ball before the New York-Washington game.

Seldom has there been such a wholesale turnover of player talent from one opening day to the next. The Korean War had something to do with it, but the big factor was the flurry of trading in both leagues, particularly the American.

Open Tuesday Night It is easy to see what happened by looking at the probable lineups of the Detroit at St. Louis night opener Tuesday. The Tigers and Browns have been swapping men like mad. Seven players who opened in 1952 will be playing for the opposition Tuesday, including pitchers Ned Garver and Virgil Trucks.

In fact, Garver shut out the Tigers last year while drawing his pay from the Browns.

Key men like the Chicago Cubs' Hank Sauer and Roy Smalley and Washington's Eddie Yost will miss the first games because of injuries suffered during spring training.

A promising rookie crop will break into big league box scores for the first time. Junior Gilliam, Brooklyn's new second baseman, probably has been the most publicized because he shoved Jackie Robinson over to third base.

Spencer Will Play Daryl Spencer, the New York Giants' new infield flash was supposed to miss a couple of weeks because of a broken cheek bone, but he was in the lineup for today's game.

The Boston Red Sox "youth program" will field a team averaging about 24 years with a kid outfield of Gene Stephens, 20, Tom Umpshett, 21, Jim Piersall, 23. The only member of the Red Sox '52 opening day lineup is Piersall, who then was shortstop.

A crowd of 30,000 expected at Washington tomorrow when the Senators meet the World Champion New York Yankees. Allie Reynolds, the Yankees' "super chief," is to meet Bob Porterfield.

Reds Welcome Braves Cincinnati counts on 30,000 to see the revamped Reds welcome Milwaukee back to the majors. Bud Podbielniak will be the Cincinnati starter against the Braves' Max Surkont.

The uprooted Braves will hustle home for a Tuesday game that will be the first ever played in the new $5,000,000 Milwaukee County Stadium, before a sellout 36,000.

Sunday School League Dinner Set For Apr. 27

The tenth annual YMCA Sunday School Basketball League dinner will be held at the "Y" Monday, April 27, beginning at 6:15 p. m.

The league recently closed its 25th season with St. Matthew's Evangelical and Reformed of Bowling Green crowned as 1952-53 champions.

Mantles Have Boy JOPLIN, Mo., April 12 (AP)—Mrs. Mickey Mantle, wife of the New York Yankees slugger, gave birth today to a boy weighing eight pounds, nine ounces.

A nurse said the boy has already been named Mickey Elvin Mantle. "Elvin" is in honor of Mickey's dad, who died May, 1952, at Denver, Colo.

Both mother and baby were reported "doing fine."

Bucs Beat Nats, Grasso Injured

Six Runs In Eighth Decide Contest, 8-5

PITTSBURGH, April 12 (AP)—Singles by Dick Cole, Felipe Montemayor and Danny O'Connell drove in five runs as the Pittsburgh Pirates of the National League forged from behind with a six-run outburst in the eighth inning to defeat the Washington Senators of the American League, 8-5, today in an exhibition game.

The Senators lost more than the ball game as Catcher Mickey Grasso suffered a broken bone in his left hand in the last inning. He was struck by one of Bob Hall's pitches. Washington officials said he probably will be lost to the team for three weeks.

Hall, who took over the Pirate mound duties in the seventh, got credit for the win, while Jim Pearce, the Senators' second relief hurler, was charged with the loss.

Near Fight Marks Browns-Cards Tilt

ST. LOUIS, April 12 (AP)—Stan Musial drove in four runs with a home run and double, but the St. Louis Cardinals were defeated again today by the rival Browns, 8-5, in a city series game featured by a near fight and three players hit by pitched balls.

Southpaw Harry Brecheen, long-time Cardinal hurler, won the victory for the Browns. He did not yield a hit in three innings of work.

The near fight came in the second when Bill Hunter, rookie Brown shortstop, was easy out at the plate but charged hard into Catcher Del Rice who kicked at Hunter. An exchange of words between Manager Marty Marion and Rice followed but Cardinal Manager Eddie Stanky pulled Rice away.

Wilmer (Vinegar Bend) Mizell, giving up six of the 10 walks the Browns drew in the three innings he worked, was charged with the defeat as the Browns tagged him for five runs on three hits.

Each side collected eight hits in the game played in raw 45-degree weather before 6,750 spectators.

Braves Trim Bosox

BOSTON, April 12 (AP)—The end of a one-time glorious National League era came for Boston today as its Milwaukee-shifted Braves beat the Red Sox, 4-1, in the final of the cross-country "city" series.

When the last Red Sox player was retired, the Braves disappeared in a matter of seconds. They raced for the chartered plane that will carry them to Cincinnati where, tomorrow, they officially restore Milwaukee to major league status.

Most of the dampened crowd beat hasty retreats. But one spry octogenarian, from one of the Red Sox private boxes atop the grandstand, gazed long and pensively on the empty diamond.

He was Hall-of-Famer Duffy, who set baseball's all-time batting record as a Boston National in 1894. He most likely was thinking of Milwaukee, scene of one of the few disappointments in his glorious baseball record. Hughie managed the Brewers back in 1901, the one season Milwaukee had American League membership.

Milwaukee ... 002 101 000-4 8 0 Boston (A) ... 100 000 000-1 4 1 Wilson and Cooper, Crandall (8); Freeman, Kemmerer (6), Holcombe (8) and Niarhos.

Chisox Edge Cubs

CHICAGO, April 12 (AP)—The Chicago White Sox will carry a nine-game victory streak into their American League opener at Cleveland Tuesday after edging the Chicago Cubs in a chilly 4-3 thriller today before 12,420 fans.

Pitcher Tommy Byrne, who pitched seven innings and yielded five hits, wrapped up the South Siders' 25th victory in 40 spring games with a fifth-inning home run off losing pitcher Warren Hacker behind Chico Carrasquel's leadoff single.

Chisholm Joins Piedmont League Umpiring Staff

Reports To Class B Circuit April 22

Robert V. "Sparky" Chisholm has signed a contract to umpire in the Piedmont League this year.

Cumberland's well known sports promoter has received instructions to report at the Hotel Ingelside, Staunton, Va., Wednesday, April 22 when umpires of the circuit meet with President Frank Summers.

This will be Chisholm's third year as an umpire in organized baseball and each year he has advanced one step higher.

A graduate of Bill McGowan's umpiring school in Florida two years ago, "Sparky" made his debut in the Appalachian League, a Class "D" loop, in 1951. Last year he advanced to Class "C" ball in the Evangeline League in Louisiana.

He was sold to the Western International League for this season but the return of two umpires from the service resulted in that Class "A" circuit sending him out on option to the Class "B" Piedmont League.

The Piedmont is composed of eight teams, namely, Hagerstown and York, formerly of the Interstate League, Lynchburg, Norfolk, Portsmouth, Newport News, Richmond and Roanoke. The league season opens April 23.

Prior to taking up umpiring Chisholm was active as a sports promoter. He revived amateur boxing here after the Second World War as promoter for shows staged by the American Legion and Amvets and managed several boxers, his ace being Randall "Skeets" Starkey, Wiley Ford (W. Va.) middleweight, now in the armed service. "Sparky" managed baseball, softball and football teams before and after the war.

McPhail Arrested Following Run-In With State Police

BEL AIR, Md., April 12 (AP)—Fiery Larry MacPhail, arrested late yesterday on a charge of being drunk and disorderly and assaulting a state trooper, today blamed it all on the poor way the state police handle traffic outside his Bowie race track.

MacPhail heads a syndicate that took over Bowie a year ago. MacPhail and a state trooper had a wordy encounter as 21,000 persons were crowding their way out of the mile track. Three troopers took MacPhail to Hyattsville police station and booked him on the charges.

MacPhail told a reporter today the run-in on the track's grounds was simply a result of what he called the sloppy manner in which the troopers had been handling the traffic jam at the track.

Asked about the assault charge, the big squatty redhead said he thought the trooper was the only one that was aware of any physical force.

Hot Stove Draft Set For Thursday

A meeting of Hot Stove League managers will be held at the Loyal Order of Moose Home Thursday at 7 p. m., at which time the draft of Little League players will be held. Robert E. Pence, director of the City Recreation Department, will be present.

Following the draft a full membership meeting of the Hot Stove League will be held. All clubs are requested to send representatives as important business will be transacted.

15 Injured At Races, Grandstand Collapses

AUSTIN, Tex., April 12 (INS)—Fifteen persons suffered minor injuries today when a grandstand collapsed and settled slowly to the ground just before the opening of the national championship sports car races at Austin.

Jim Kimberly of Chicago, won the featured 200-mile event in a Ferrari which averaged 86.01 miles an hour over the 4.1 mile course at Bergstrom air force base. He was timed at 145 mph on the straightaway.

He also took third place in the 75-mile event which was won by Bill Spear, of Palm Beach, Fla., in a Ferrari. Fred Wacker, Jr., of Chicago, who drove a Cadillac Allard, was second.

A crowd estimated at 35,000 began arriving when the temporary grandstand collapsed. Officials said the ground had been softened by showers and that the weight of persons in the stand caused it to settle.

The injured were treated and released.

Goalie Gerry McNeil was back in the nets for the Canadiens and played a spectacular game.

Potomac State Athletes Hear Judge Browning

Teams Are Honored At Annual Dinner

KEYSER, April 12 — Judge Chauncey Browning, of Logan county, member of the West Virginia Supreme Court of Appeals, delivered a talk of humor and serious thought at the sports dinner held Saturday night in Davis Hall honoring athletic teams of Potomac State College.

Highlights of his talk, the theme of which was "Winning In Life," were:

1. Play the game as it should be played.
2. Plan for the future of your life just as hard as you play the game.
3. Loyalty should be in your minds at all times; loyalty to your team, the school and your fellow players, and be loyal to your purpose in life and all that is good, using judgment as you go along.
4. Practice self discipline.
5. Faith is a little more than belief. It is stronger. You must have belief to go out to do what you believe to be right, and faith in your ability to do it.
6. Try to get along with people. Do it in your teamwork by being cooperative and continue it through your lives.

Judge Browning congratulated Potomac State for having the resourcefulness to win even against four year schools.

The program was opened by Judge Harlan Calhoun of the Circuit court in Hampshire and adjoining counties. He spoke briefly and introduced Rev. W. Cecil Shepherd, pastor of Grace Methodist Church, Keyser, who gave the invocation.

Following dinner Dr. E. E. Church, president of Potomac State, introduced the special guests and Judge Calhoun introduced the guest speaker.

Dana "Horse" Lough, director of athletics, discussed all the sports at the school this year. Other speakers were John Maiden, assistant football and baseball coach; George Baird, football; William Sutton, basketball; Edward Totten, baseball and Joseph Talbott, of the rifle squad, and M/Sgt. Philip Beall, of the ROTC rifle training program.

There will be 10 events on the program—100 and 220 dashes, 440, 880 and mile runs, 440, 880 and mile relays, shot put and discus throw. The high and broad jump have been eliminated because the jumping pits are not ready.

Fort Hill High school's thindclads won their second meet of the season Saturday by downing Martinsburg High's Bulldogs here by the score of 106 1/6 to 62 5/6 points. The win extended the Sentinels' string to 15 meets in three seasons.

Coach William P. Hahn's team won 12 out of a possible 15 firsts. Bill Allen and John McVicker coped with two events each and led in scoring with 12 1/2 points each. Holbruner headed Martinsburg with 10 1/2 tallies.

Capon Bridge Tops Paw Paw

Saville Whiffs 15 In 11-0 Triumph

CAPON BRIDGE, W. Va., April 12—Capon Bridge High School exploded for nine runs after two were up in the first inning and walloped Paw Paw High School here Friday by the score of 11-0.

The game was limited to 4 1/2 innings by mutual agreement to allow Paw Paw to return home for an activity scheduled at their school.

Larry Saville, Capon Bridge pitcher, struck out 11 of a possible 15 batsmen and yielded only three hits.

The big blow during the first inning outburst was a bases loaded triple by Left Fielder Voit. K. Snyder and Voit had two hits each for Capon Bridge.

Hogbin, Paw Paw twirler, fanned six and accounted for two of his team's three safeties.

The game originally was scheduled for Paw Paw but was transferred to Capon Bridge on account of wet grounds.

Ben Hangs Up Record 274 On Soggy Course

Beats Porky Oliver By Five Strokes To Earn $4,000 Prize

By HUGH FULLERTON, Jr.

AUGUSTA, Ga., April 12 (AP)—Ben Hogan, the little man who has made golf a science instead of a game, won his second Masters tournament today and broke the tournament record with a 72-hole score of 274. Hogan shot a final round of 69 over the soggy, par 72 Augusta National course to win by a five-stroke margin.

Big Ed (Porky) Oliver of Palm Springs, Calif., tied the long-standing record of 279 but only to finish as a neglected second as a Sunday crowd of some 12,000 cheered Hogan on.

Oliver, the only player who wouldn't be shaken off as Hogan took the lead on the second round and stretched it out on the third, had a 35-35-70 today but couldn't gain a stroke.

Lloyd Mangrum, the top money winner of the pro circuit, fired a 69 on the final round to take third place with 282.

Sam Snead, the defending champion and two-time winner of the Masters, never was a contender and posted a 292 total after a 75 on his final round.

The record of 279 which Hogan broke was set by Ralph Guldahl in 1939 and equaled by Claude Harmon in 1948.

Although he led from the second round and had a four-stroke margin starting the last, Hogan really wrapped up the record on the last nine holes.

Course Is Soggy Playing over a course that was left soggy and slow after a heavy rain this morning, he equaled par 36 for the front nine of the 6,900-yard Augusta National Course, then knocked three strokes off par from the back nine with a 33.

Virtually a stranger to big-time tournament golf except for a few selected events such as the Masters, Hogan again proved that he's one of the greatest players by shooting four sub-par rounds in succession. His rounds of 70-69-66-69-274 put him 14 strokes under par for the 72-hole route.

Today he played as slowly and carefully as always and suffered the usual delays caused by the huge gallery. But even when his usually steady putter faltered a bit and put him over par on the sixth and eighth holes, he was unworried.

Fulfills Prediction In breaking the record, Hogan fulfilled his own pre-tournament prediction that a new one would be set if the weather remained good. And it was good as far as Ben was concerned, although on two of the four days the early starters were delayed by rain.

At the post-tournament presentation ceremonies, club president Bob Jones announced that the prize money would be doubled all the way down the line. That means that instead of an approximate $10,000 total, the professionals will receive a total of about $26,000, including a $200 award to each pro who completed four rounds but failed to finish in the top 24 "money" places. Hogan, as winner, will get $4,000 instead of $2,000.

Yankees Start 1953 Campaign In Washington

Braves At Cincinnati Today; Eight Games Scheduled Tuesday

By JACK HAND

NEW YORK, April 12 (AP)—With a break from the weatherman the baseball season opens tomorrow at Washington and Cincinnati and swings into full scale operation Tuesday with an eight-game program.

Milwaukee has supplanted Boston in the National League and 54 per cent of last year's opening day players have left for other clubs, leagues or the military services. But the New York Yankees and Brooklyn Dodgers still are favored. Here is the opening schedule:

MONDAY

American League
New York at Washington, 3 p.m.
National League
Milwaukee at Cincinnati, 3 p.m.

TUESDAY

National League
St. Louis at Milwaukee, 2:30 p.m.
Pittsburgh at Brooklyn, 1:30 p.m.
New York at Philadelphia, 1:30 p.m.

American League
Chicago at Cleveland, 3 p.m.
Philadelphia at New York, 2 p.m.
Detroit at St. Louis (night), 9:30 p.m.

Washington at Boston, 2 p.m.

If pre-game forecasts aren't too optimistic, a turnout of 291,000 will watch the two-day program. That would be quite a gain on last year's attendance of 172,322 for eight games but short of the record of 331,783 set in the giddy days of 1938.

Nixon Replaces Ike

Things are so different that there even is a new cast in the "presidential" opener at Griffith Stadium. Harry Truman has gone on the "retired" list and his successor, President Eisenhower, is golfing in Augusta, Ga., so Vice President Nixon will toss out the first ball before the New York-Washington game.

Seldom has there been such a wholesale turnover of player talent from one opening day to the next. The Korean War had something to do with it, but the big factor was the flurry of trading in both leagues, particularly the American.

Open Tuesday Night

It is easy to see what happened by looking at the probable lineups of the Detroit at St. Louis night opener Tuesday. The Tigers and Browns have been swapping men like mad. Seven players who opened in 1952 will be playing for the opposition Tuesday, including pitchers Ned Garver and Virgil Trucks.

In fact, Garver shut out the Tigers last year while drawing his pay from the Browns.

Key men like the Chicago Cubs' Hank Sauer and Roy Smalley and Washington's Eddie Yost will miss the first games because of injuries suffered during spring training.

A promising rookie crop will break into big league box scores for the first time. Junior Gilliam, Brooklyn's new second baseman, probably has been the most publicized because he shoved Jackie Robinson over to third base.

Spencer Will Play

Daryl Spencer, the New York Giants' new infield flash was supposed to miss a couple of weeks because of a broken check bone, but he was in the lineup for today's called-off exhibition with Cleveland. Chances are he'll be at third base at Philadelphia Tuesday.

The Boston Red Sox "youth program" will field a team averaging about 24 years with a kid outfield of Gene Stephens, 20, Tom Umpflett, 21, Jim Piersall, 23. The only member of the Red Sox '52 opening day lineup is Piersall, who then was shortstop.

A crowd of 30,000 expected at Washington tomorrow when the Senators meet the World Champion New York Yankees. Allie Reynolds, the Yankees' "super chief", is to meet Bob Porterfield, Reds' welcome Braves.

Cincinnati counts on 30,000 to see the revamped Reds welcome Milwaukee back to the majors. Bud Poddiehan, will be the Cincy starter against the Braves' Max Surkont.

The uprooted Braves will hustle home for a Tuesday game that will be the first ever played in the new $5,000,000 Milwaukee County Stadium, before a sellout 36,000.

Sunday School League Dinner Set For Apr. 27

The tenth annual YMCA Sunday School Basketball League dinner will be held at the "Y" Monday, April 27, beginning at 6:15 p. m.

The league recently closed its 25th season with St. Matthew's Evangelical and Reformed of Bowling Green crowned as 1952-53 champions.

Mantles Have Boy

JOPLIN, Mo., April 12 (AP)—Mrs. Mickey Mantle, wife of the New York Yankees slugger, gave birth today to a boy weighing eight pounds, nine ounces.

A nurse said the boy has already been named Mickey Elvin Mantle. "Elvin" is in honor of Mickey's dad, who died May, 1952, at Denver, Colo.

Both mother and baby were reported "doing fine."

Bucs Beat Nats, Grasso Injured

Six Runs In Eighth Decide Contest, 8-5

PITTSBURGH, April 12 (AP)—Singles by Dick Cole, Felipe Montemayor and Danny O'Connell drove in five runs as the Pittsburgh Pirates of the National League forged from behind with a six-run outburst in the eighth inning to defeat the Washington Senators of the American League, 8-5, today in an exhibition game.

The Senators lost more than the ball game as Catcher Mickey Grasso suffered a broken bone in his left hand in the last inning. He was struck by one of Bob Hall's pitches. Washington officials said he probably will be lost to the team for three weeks.

Hall, who took over the Pirate mound duties in the seventh, got credit for the win, while Jim Pearce, the Senators' second relief hurler, was charged with the loss.

Near Fight Marks Browns-Cards Tilt

ST. LOUIS, April 12 (AP)—Stan Musial drove in four runs with a home run and double, but the St. Louis Cardinals were defeated again today by the rival Browns, 8-5, in a city series game featured by a near fight and three players hit by pitched balls.

Southpaw Harry Brecheen, long-time Cardinal hurler, won the victory for the Browns. He did not yield a hit in three innings of work.

The near fight came in the second when Bill Hunter, rookie Brown shortstop, was an easy out at the plate but charged hard into Catcher Del Rice who kicked at Hunter. An exchange of words between Manager Marty Marion and Rice followed but Cardinal Manager Eddie Stanky pulled Rice away.

Wilmer (Vinegar Bend) Mizell, giving up six of the 10 walks the Browns drew in the three innings he worked, was charged with the defeat as the Browns tagged him for five runs on three hits.

Each side collected eight hits in the game played in raw 45-degree weather before 6,750 spectators.

Braves Trim Bosox

BOSTON, April 12 (AP)—The end of a one-time glorious National League era came for Boston today as its Milwaukee-shifted Braves beat the Red Sox, 4-1, in the final of the cross-country "city" series.

When the last Red Sox player was retired, the Braves disappeared in a matter of seconds. They raced for the chartered plane that will carry them to Cincinnati where, tomorrow, they officially restore Milwaukee to major league status.

Most of the dampened crowd beat hasty retreats. But one spry octogenarian, from one of the Red Sox private boxes atop the grandstand, gazed long and pensively on the empty diamond.

He was Hall-of-Famer Duffy, who set baseball's all-time batting record as a Boston National in 1894. He most likely was thinking of Milwaukee, scene of one of the few disappointments in his glorious baseball record. Hughie managed the Brewers back in 1901, the one season Milwaukee had American League membership.

CHICAGO, April 12 (AP)—The Chicago White Sox will carry a nine-game victory streak into their American League opener at Cleveland Tuesday after edging the Chicago Cubs in a chilly 4-3 thriller today before 12,420 fans.

Pitcher Tommy Byrne, who pitched seven innings and yielded five hits, wrapped up the South Siders' 25th victory in 40 spring games with a fifth-inning home run off losing pitcher Warren Hacker behind Chico Carrasquel's leadoff single.

Chisholm Joins Piedmont League Umpiring Staff

Reports To Class B Circuit April 22

Robert V. "Sparky" Chisholm has signed a contract to umpire in the Piedmont League this year.

Cumberland's well known sports promoter has received instructions to report at the Hotel Ingelside, Staunton, Va., Wednesday, April 22 when umpires of the circuit meet with President Frank Summers.

This will be Chisholm's third year as an umpire in organized baseball and each year he has advanced one step higher.

A graduate of Bill McGowan's umpiring school in Florida two years ago, "Sparky" made his debut in the Appalachian League, a Class "D" loop, in 1951. Last year he advanced to Class "C" ball in the Evangeline League in Louisiana.

He was sold to the Western International League for this season but the return of two umpires from the service resulted in that Class "A" circuit sending him out on option to the Class "B" Piedmont League.

The Piedmont is composed of eight teams, namely, Hagerstown and York, formerly of the Interstate League, Lynchburg, Norfolk, Portsmouth, Newport News, Richmond and Roanoke. The league season opens April 23.

Prior to taking up umpiring Chisholm was active as a sports promoter. He revived amateur boxing here after the Second World War as promoter for shows staged by the American Legion and Amvets and managed several boxers, his ace being Randall "Skeets" Starkey, Wiley Ford (W. Va.) middleweight, now in the armed service. "Sparky" managed baseball, softball and football teams before and after the war.

McPhail Arrested Following Run-In With State Police

BEL AIR, Md., April 12 (AP)—Fiery Larry MacPhail, arrested last yesterday on a charge of being drunk and disorderly and assaulting a state trooper, today blamed it all on the poor way the state police handle traffic outside his Bowie race track.

MacPhail heads a syndicate that took over Bowie a year ago. MacPhail and a state trooper had a wordy encounter as 21,000 persons were crowding their way out of the mile track. Three troopers took MacPhail to Hyattsville police station and booked him on the charges.

MacPhail told a reporter today the run-in on the track's grounds was simply a result of what he called the sloppy manner in which the troopers had been handling the traffic jam at the track.

Asked about the assault charge, the big squatty redhead said he thought the trooper was the only one that was aware of any physical force.

Hot Stove Draft Set For Thursday

A meeting of Hot Stove League managers will be held at the Loyal Order of Moose Home Thursday at 7 p. m., at which time the draft of Little League players will be held. Robert E. Pence, director of the City Recreation Department, will be present.

Following the draft a full membership meeting of the Hot Stove League will be held. All clubs are requested to send representatives as important business will be transacted.

15 Injured At Races, Grandstand Collapses

AUSTIN, Tex., April 12 (INS)—Fifteen persons suffered minor injuries today when a grandstand collapsed and settled slowly to the ground just before the opening of the national championship sports car races at Austin.

Jim Kimberly of Chicago, won the featured 200-mile event in a Ferrari which averaged 86.01 miles an hour over the 4.1 mile course at Bergstrom air force base. He was timed at 145 mph on the straightaway.

He also took third place in the 75-mile event which was won by Bill Spear, of Palm Beach, Fla., in a Ferrari. Fred Wacker, Jr., of Chicago, who drove a Cadillac Allard, was second.

A crowd estimated at 35,000 began arriving when the temporary grandstand collapsed. Officials said the ground had been softened by showers and that the weight of persons in the stand caused it to settle.

The injured were treated and released.

Umpires Named For Three Bi-State Openers Today

LaSalle-Bruce Game Postponed; Two PVC Contests Are Listed

Umpires were named yesterday by Cecil Warnick, umpire-in-chief, for all games this week in the Bi-State Interscholastic Baseball Conference which launches its 15th campaign today.

Ed Thompson and Warnick will officiate in today's liddler at Beall High Field between Coach Ed Finzel's defending champions and Orville Jackson's Flintstone High School tossers.

Joe Stuckey and Casey Thompson will work the Allegheny at Mt. Savage game and "Chick" Snyder and Jim Angellatta will call 'em in the Fort Hill at Hyndman tilt today.

LaSalle-Bruce Postponed

Brother Joseph, director of athletics at LaSalle High School, announced last night that the LaSalle-Bruce game scheduled here today has been postponed on account of the muddy condition of the field at Community Park. If Jupe Pluvius is on his good behavior this game will be rescheduled for Tuesday or Wednesday. John Angellatta and P. Lewis have been chosen to officiate.

Other umpiring assignments in the Bi-State this week are:

Wednesday — Central at Allegheny, John Angellatta and P. Lewis.

Friday — Mt. Savage at Beall, Jim Angellatta and "Chick" Snyder; Flintstone at Bruce, T. Beall and Fred "Tack" Clark; LaSalle at Fort Hill, Jim Mason and Earl Conn; Hyndman at Central, Casey Thompson and Joe Stuckey.

The Beall-Flintstone game is set for 3:30 while the other contests are scheduled to get under way at 4 o'clock.

Two P.V.C. Games Listed

Two contests are on tap in the 10-team Potomac Valley Conference today.

Jesse Riggelman's Petersburg High Vikings will cross bats with "Dick" McElwee's Romney Pioneers at Romney while Earl Hess' Fort Ashby tossers will do battle with the West Virginia School for the Deaf at the latter's field in Romney.

Two games were played in the P.V.C. last week and two were postponed on account of rain.

Capon Bridge swamped the West Virginia School for the Deaf, 36-1, and Romney High walloped West Virginia Deaf, 30-10. The latter game was staged Saturday. Romney collected 22 hits with Ed Hartman and Jim Corbin sharing eight of the bingles.

Fort Hill Beats Grads

At Fort Hill, Saturday, Coach John J. "Bobby" Cavanaugh's Sentinels launched their campaign with an 8-5 decision over the Alumni.

Kent State College of Kent, Ohio, made a clean sweep of its two-game series with Potomac State by winning the final at Keyser Saturday by the score of 10-4. It was the fourth consecutive defeat suffered by the Keyser nine.

Native Dancer Made 7-5 Derby Favorite

AGUA CALIENTE, Mex., April 12 (AP)—Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt's Native Dancer today was listed as the 7 to 5 favorite in the Caliente future book on the Kentucky derby May 2. He was quoted at 8 to 5 last week.

Horses which raced this past winter at Santa Anita received a good share of attention from price-maker Walter Marty in his latest price line.

Western-owned and bred Correspondent, winner of a tuneup race at Keeneland last Friday, is the second choice in the future book at 5 to 1, with no change from a week ago. He is trailed by Straight Face and Royal Bay Gem, each at 6 to 1.

Co-four choices are Breeze By and Invigorator, each quoted at 7 to 1.

Montreal Wins, 3-0

BOSTON, April 12 (INS)—The Montreal Canadiens defeated the Boston Bruins 3 to 0 before 13,909 at Boston Garden tonight to take a 2 to 1 lead in their seven game series for the Stanley Cup.

The sellout crowd saw Tom Johnson, Ed Masnick and Ken Mosdell score Montreal's goals, one in each period.

Goalie Gerry McNeil was back in the nets for the Canadiens and played a spectacular game.

Potomac State Athletes Hear Judge Browning

Teams Are Honored At Annual Dinner

KEYSER, April 12 — Judge Chauncey Browning, of Logan county, member of the West Virginia Supreme Court of Appeals, delivered a talk of humor and serious thought at the sports dinner held Saturday night in Davis Hall honoring athletic teams of Potomac State College.

Highlights of his talk, the theme of which was "Winning In Life," were:

1. Play the game as it should be played.
2. Plan for the future of your life just as hard as you play the game.
3. Loyalty should be in your minds at all times; loyalty to your team, the school and your fellow players, and be loyal to your purpose in life and all that is good, using judgment as you go along.
4. Practice self discipline.
5. Faith is a little more than belief. It is stronger. You must have belief to go out to do what you believe to be right, and faith in your ability to do it.
6. Try to get along with people. Do it in your teamwork by being cooperative and continue it through your lives.

Judge Browning congratulated Potomac State for having the resourcefulness to win even against four year schools.

The program was opened by Judge Harlan Calhoun of the Circuit court in Hampshire and adjoining counties. He spoke briefly and introduced Rev. W. Cecil Shepherd, pastor of Grace Methodist Church, Keyser, who gave the invocation.

Following dinner Dr. E. E. Church, president of Potomac State, introduced the special guests and Judge Calhoun introduced the guest speaker.

Dana "Horse" Lough, director of athletics, discussed all the sports at the school this year. Other speakers were John Maiden, assistant football and baseball coach; George Baird, football; William Sutton, basketball; Edward Totten, baseball and Joseph Talbott, of the rifle squad, and M/Sgt. Philip Beall, of the ROTC rifle training program.

Beall-AHS Meet Set For Tuesday

Fort Hill Scores Over Martinsburg

Beall High School's track and field team will play host to Allegheny High School in a dual meet Tuesday at 3:30 o'clock at Frostburg, J. Ray Hull, Beall mentor, announced last night.

The meet originally was set for today but was changed through mutual agreement between Hull and Coach Roy Lester of Allegheny.

There will be 10 events on the program—100 and 220 dashes, 440, 880 and mile runs, 440, 880 and mile relays, shot put and discus throw. The high and broad jump have been eliminated because the jumping pits are not ready.

Fort Hill High School's thincads won their second meet of the season Saturday by downing Martinsburg High's Bulldogs here by the score of 106 1-6 to 62 5-6 points. The win extended the Sentinels' string to 15 meets in three seasons.

Cash William P. Hahn's team won 12 out of a possible 15 firsts. Bill Allen and John McVicker copped two events each and led in scoring with 12½ points each. Holbruner headed Martinsburg with 10½ tallies.

The Sentinels will participate in the annual Handley High School invitational meet Saturday at Winchester, Va.

CAPON BRIDGE, W. Va., April 12—Capon Bridge High School exploded for nine runs after two were out in the first inning and walloped Paw Paw High School here Friday by the score of 11-0.

Larry Saville, Capon Bridge pitcher, struck out 11 of a possible 15 batters and yielded only three hits.

The big blow during the first inning outburst was a bases loaded triple by Left Fielder Voit. K. Snyder and Voit had two hits each for Capon Bridge.

In Memoriam
In memory of George Korns Garvin, who passed away 6 years ago today,
April 13, 1947.

Though the years have come and gone,
We often sit and think of you
And speak of how you died.
For all of us you did your best:
Oh God grant you Eternal Rest.

Sadly missed by the family,
Mrs. R. D. Sparks
In loving memory of our dear father and husband, Joseph H. Shroat, who passed away two years ago April 13, 1951.

Three years, since the sad day,
The one we loved was called away.
God took him home, it was his will,
But in our hearts, he liveth still.

Arrested earlier this month in New York City on a charge of possessing stolen goods, Charles E. Beeman, 22, of Charleston Street, Lonaconing, gained his freedom Thursday in Felony Court there.

The district attorney said there was insufficient evidence to warrant holding him.

New York authorities had identified Beeman as a member of an alleged bandit gang which preyed on bar patrons in Upper West Side. Three other suspects will stand trial April 17.

Beeman, according to police, was one of a foursome which staged a robbery April 1 and made off with $1,500 belonging to a student who was bundled into a bathtub at gunpoint.

Saturday, two 15-year-old youths were paroled in Juvenile Court on auto theft charges. A 16-year-old boy was given a "stiff suspended sentence" for a series of thefts.

Three North End boys will be given a hearing this week for stealing two packages of inselbrick from Frederick W. Schanning, 819 Shriver Avenue, on April 1.

Detective Leo E. P. Law said the siding material, valued at $16.50, was used on a shanty on county land above the North End playground. Eight other youths were involved in the case, but charges were filed against the three following their arrest Friday.

Appearing here on April 24 will be

Area Man Dies Of Jap Rifle Bullet Wound

Thomas C. Robinson
Death Self-Inflicted

A Paw Paw, W. Va. Western Maryland Railway track foreman died Saturday night of what police termed a self-inflicted bullet wound.

Paw Paw Police Chief Charles Roy Robey said Thomas Clay Robinson, 54, was found in his room at home by his family who had just returned from a theatre.

Authorities said he was found sitting on a trunk in his room with a .31 caliber high-powered Japanese rifle between his legs. The bullet had entered the face at the chin blowing away part of the skull.

Robey added the Japanese war souvenir had been made over by Robinson for use as a hunting rifle. Police set the time of death between 8:30 and 9 o'clock Saturday night.

Robinson was born in Kifer, Md., a son of Mrs. Viola (Northcraft) Robinson, Thurmont, Md., and the late Charles Robinson. He married the former Mrs. Margie DeLawder September 21, 1946 in Cumberland.

Besides his mother and widow, Robinson is survived by one daughter, Mrs. Pauline Stonebreaker, Rochester, N. Y., and four sons, Fred and Glenn Robinson, both with the U. S. Air Force, and Ronnie and Arthur Robinson, at home.

Also surviving are three step sons, Richard DeLawder, New York; Thomas DeLawder, Paw Paw, and Jack DeLawder, with the U. S. Navy, Norfolk, Va.; three step daughters, Misses Mary, Betty and Jean DeLawder, all at home; three brothers, Stanley Robinson, Ridgeley; Shide Robinson, Thurmont, and Roy Robinson, Hagerstown; one sister, Mrs. Deslie Crabtree, Cumberland, and two grandchildren.

He had been a resident of Paw Paw for the past seven years after moving there from Kifer. He is a member of the Christian Church and Cumberland Aerie 245, Fraternal Order of Eagles.

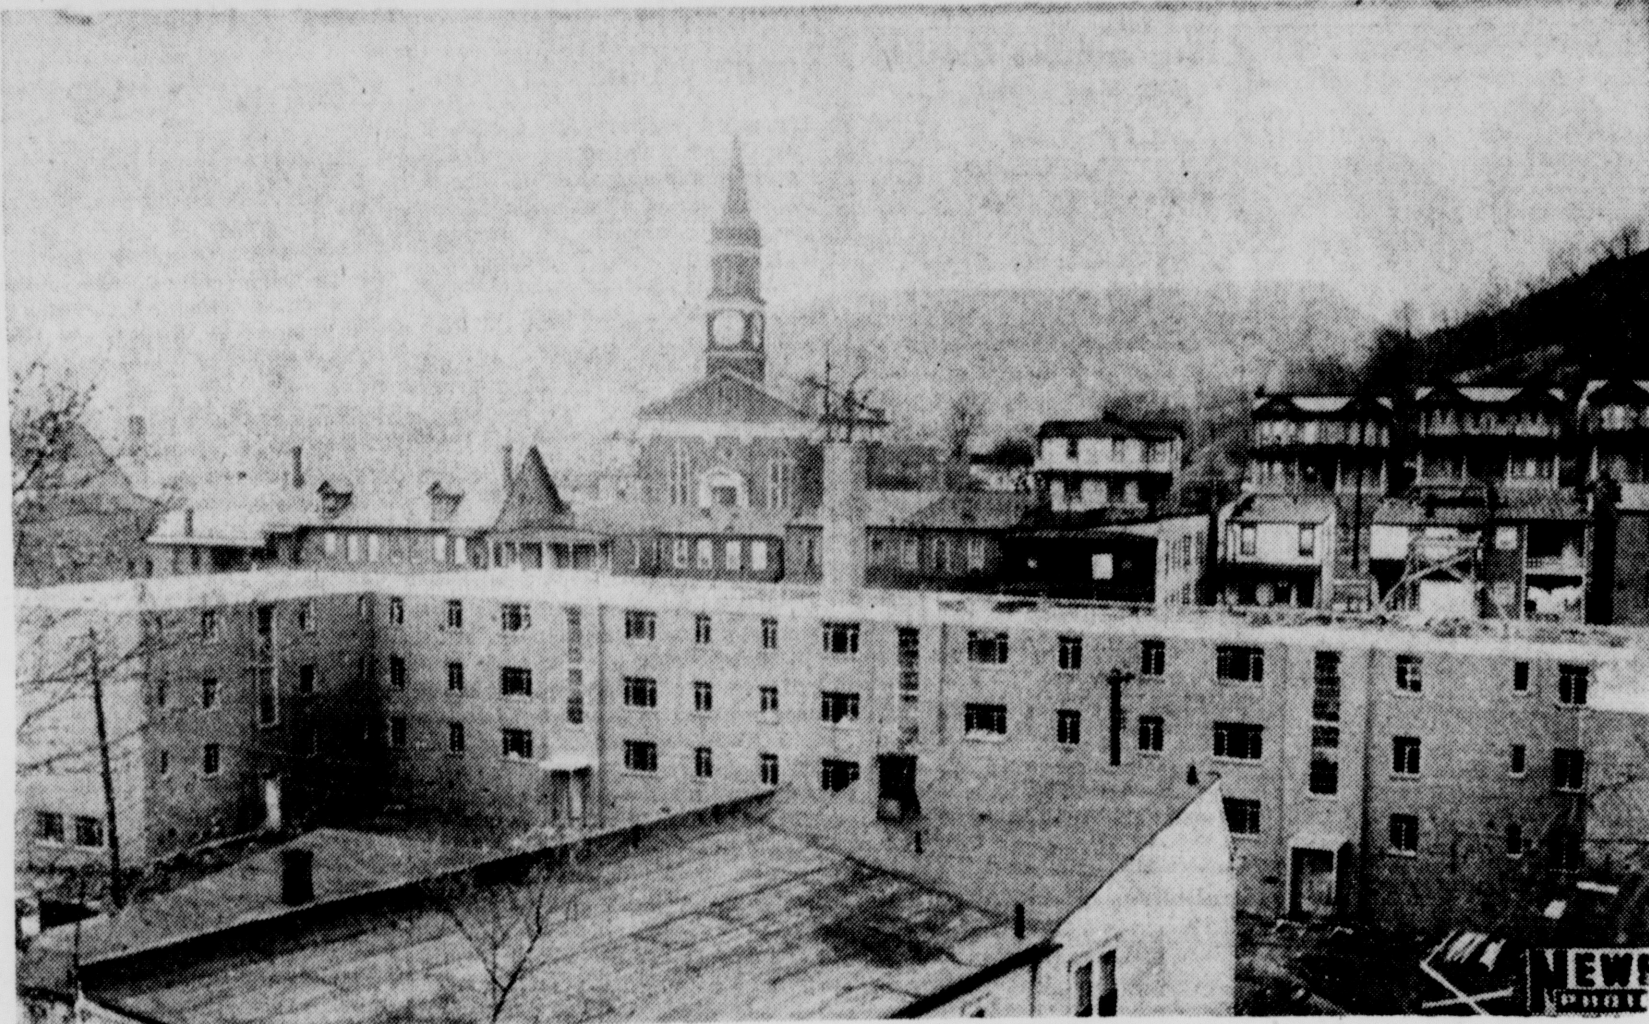

The body will be taken from the Parks Funeral Home in Berkeley Springs to the Parks Funeral Chapel in Paw Paw this afternoon for services tomorrow at 2 p. m. Rev. John Van Voorhis, pastor of the Christian Church, will officiate and interment will be in Camp Hill Cemetery.

Garrett Firemen Conclude Course

Some 17 Garrett County volunteer firemen from Kitzmiller and Deer Park will take a final examination Thursday night marking the end of a 20-week Fire School which has been held in the two communities. Cromwell C. Zembower of LaVale, who has instructed the course, said that 10 Kitzmiller firemen and seven from Deer Park are in line to take the examination, having completed all other requirements.

Training sessions, which took three hours, were held every Wednesday night alternately in one or the other Garrett County community. The course, the first of three offered by the Fire Service Extension of the University of Maryland, features basic fundamentals in the use of fire equipment and fire fighting. Previously, Garrett County Fire Schools have been held only in Oakland.

A dinner for graduates of the course and their wives, to which Garrett County officials will be invited, will be held Saturday, May 2, in Kitzmiller.

Will Be Completed Soon

Construction of the Benjamin Banneker Housing Development seen here is about 65 per cent complete and officials of the Cumberland Housing Authority expect the project to be completed by early in July. The John I. Vandegrift Construction Company began work on the $265,000 housing project last Armistice Day. It will provide modern housing facilities for 30 families of this city.

City Revenues Approach Goal In 3rd Quarter

City revenues were within eight per cent of a $1,322,730 goal and spending was lagging three points below par as the city ended the third quarter of its fiscal year on March 31.

Collections were $1,216,143.90, or 91.94 of the total levy, according to a monthly financial report issued by Arthur B. Gibson, city auditor.

The tax collection has exceeded its goal with collections of $906,816.74, or 101 per cent of the $896,200 tax levy.

With three months to go, excess collections are now at the $21,794.77 mark. This includes $10,616.74 of excess taxes—an average of $6.142.06 from the amount expected from state racing income, $4,694.27 from state income tax and $341.70 from city weight receipts.

Still to be collected is $128,380.87, including a great deal of the money expected from state shared income.

Major items are $55,715.67 expected from general licenses, $15,448.67 from general and special income, $11,934.59 from recreation income, $14,071.50 from state auto license fees and $18,585.69 from state gas and oil tax.

State Funds Stated
Many of these items are not due until April, May and June. If they exceed expectations, the city will end the year with a surplus but nobody at City Hall is willing to estimate what the amount may be. Certainly, nobody is willing to predict the amount may reach the $88,000 on hand to begin the present fiscal year.

As the third quarter ended, the city departments had spent $789,446.19, or 72 per cent of an appropriation of $1,095,030. Par for the period is 75 per cent.

Most departments appeared to have sufficient funds to complete the year, with the exception of contingent, which was down to $81.86.

Rotarians To Meet

"Just a moment, Mr. Speaker," will be the subject of the program planned by Max Bastian and his committee at the weekly luncheon meeting of the Cumberland Rotary Club tomorrow at 12:15 p. m. in Central YMCA.

Two CAP Cadets Win Promotions

Two members of Fort Cumberland Flight, Civil Air Patrol Cadets, were promoted from private first class to corporal, according to Lt. J. F. Wagner, commandant.

The new corporals are Danny Long and Timothy Stein. Another cadet, James Summers, was assigned as recreation officer.

Activities Thursday included a discussion on types and stresses of planes. The cadets met Saturday at the Municipal Airport for field work.

Governor Signs Police Pay, Tax Rate Measures

BALTIMORE, April 12 (AP)—Maryland property owners, state police and judges of the Court of Appeals will realize more money from three of 178 bills signed into law yesterday by Gov. McKeldin.

One measure sets the real estate tax at 5.67 cents per $100 of valuation, the lowest rate in state history. It will mean a saving of about five cents per 100 dollars to property owners. The present tax is 11 cents.

Another measure becoming law boosts the salaries of all state policemen by $200 a year.

And judges of the Court of Appeals received a salary hike in a third bill. The chief judge will receive $20,000 and associate judges $19,000.

Other measures becoming law with the governor's signature authorize absentee voting and prohibit netting and commercial fishing, except crabbing, in the Magdothy River.

The governor has now affixed his signature to 581 of the 850 bills passed by the General Assembly.

Home From Far East

Pfc. Reese Tasker, Jr., of Deer Park, was among 1,749 rotation troops from the Far East aboard the Navy vessel, Gen. J. H. McRae, which docked in Seattle, Wash., yesterday.

Mothers' Club To Meet

The Mothers' Club of Columbia Street School will meet at 1:30 p. m. tomorrow at the home of Mrs. John Miller, 347 Bedford Street.

Community Room Planned At Banneker Housing Unit

A community room will be provided in the Benjamin Banneker Housing Development on Frederick Street, according to James B. Raines, executive secretary of the Cumberland Housing Authority.

Raines said the 27 by 18 foot room located on the first floor of the housing project will be available to any organized group in the city.

The Housing Authority will work closely with the City Recreation Department in providing recreational facilities for the 30 colored families who will make their homes in the village.

Playground facilities will be available at nearby Carver School Playground.

Robert E. Pence, city recreation director, reports the department will place a leader at the Carver Playground when the housing unit opens in July.

He said the department has placed play equipment on the playground each summer, but the field was not used enough in the past to justify the cost of a paid director.

Officials estimate that Benjamin Banneker Village will be completed early in July, since work on the 30 family development is now about 65 per cent completed.

Moderate weather has allowed the John I. Vandegrift Company, contractor for the $265,000 project, to work uninterrupted throughout the winter.

At almost the same time yesterday morning, State Police Trooper John F. Browning arrested a driver who was involved in a collision not far from the hit and run mishap.

He was listed on the City Police docket as Glenn Isner, RD 3, Box 688, this city. He was transferred from the City Jail to Allegany County Jail last yesterday.

Trooper Browning said the accident occurred about 1 p. m. at the intersection of Route 40 and Route 36 (the Mt. Savage Road). Browning pointed out that Isner's vehicle collided with a car owned by John Patrick Sirna, of Ridgeley.

No one was hurt in the accident, but police said about $50 damage was caused when the two autos' front fenders crushed together. Police added Isner is charged with two state motor violations.

When Isner was arrested, police found a .22 caliber revolver, an Auxiliary Police badge, a deputy sheriff's badge, a black jack and a flash light on him.

Browning said the prisoner will be given a hearing this morning.

10 Are Injured In Area Mishaps Over Weekend

Traffic, Fall And Fire Take Toll

Ten area persons were injured in a series of mishaps over the weekend.

Two Romney residents and a Junction, W. Va., resident were admitted to Memorial Hospital yesterday afternoon following a head-on collision along Route 50 at Gap Bridge near Romney.

West Virginia State Police last night said the collision occurred at the west end of the bridge which crosses Mill Creek. Miss Phyllis Stickle, 13, of Junction, was admitted to the hospital suffering a leg injury and lacerations. Miss Frances High, 31, of Romney, suffered a head injury.

Was On Wrong Side

Arlo Haines, 52, of Romney, driver of one of the cars, was treated and released. Miss High was in the Haines vehicle, attaches said. State Police of West Virginia said John Kenneth Stickle, 16, driver of the other car, was on the wrong side of the road when the mishap occurred. He is being charged with failing to keep to the right of the road.

Investigating were Trooper W. A. Steffick and Trooper D. E. Adams.

A Marine, Carl Hansen, 31, stationed at Tyndall Air Force Base, Fla., suffered an injury to his collar bone in an auto mishap about 12:30 a. m. yesterday near Cresaptown.

Maryland State Police said he was admitted to Sacred Heart Hospital. His wife Margaret Hansen suffered a left leg injury and their conditions are reported as "good."

Police said the couple was apparently traveling at a high rate of speed on Volke Road and the auto turned over as it left the highway. Investigating was Trooper Jack Browning.

In "fair" condition at Sacred Heart Hospital is Mrs. Mary Washington, 60, of 170 Wineco Street, who was admitted there early Saturday with second and third degree burns on the upper half of her body.

Authorities said the burns resulted when she apparently used kerosene to start a fire in a kitchen stove. Coal gas fumes in the bottom of the stove evidently caused an explosion resulting in flames enveloping Mrs. Washington.

Her son, Joseph Washington, 1018 Gay Street, was summoned and took her to the hospital. A small fire in the kitchen was extinguished and firemen were not called.

Serviceman Injured

George Lease, 53, of 635 Columbia Avenue, was admitted to Sacred Heart Hospital Saturday with a right hip injury. Attaches said he fell on the B&O crossing at Pear Street.

Mrs. Dorothy K. Ruckman, 35, wife of Lorain O. Ruckman, Augusta, W. Va., was slightly injured Friday afternoon in a two-car crash on Commerce Street.

Ruckman collided with the back of auto of Donald D. Lantz, 31, RD 4, City. His wife was not hospitalized and no charges were filed.

A Keyser serviceman was injured Friday night about 10:45 o'clock in an automobile accident along Route 135 between McCoolle and Westernport.

Ralph Shumaker, 19, of Church Street, Keyser, suffered head injuries according to attaches of Potomac Valley Hospital where he was taken following the mishap.

Another occupant of the car, Bernard Cole, also of Keyser, was treated. Investigating was Trooper A. M. Spioch, of the Maryland State Police. The car was reported to have left the highway near Reeve's Garage as the driver, Shumaker, lost control.

The Pure In Heart

By REV. OWEN W. ARRINGTON
William James uses as an illustration in one of his books the word picture of a man who jumped on his horse and rode off in all directions. He was pointing out that people are often like that man—on the inside. They have no sense of direction. They try to go in all directions.

This is a common ailment of man today. He lives in a confused world, a world that is not sure where it wants to go and the constant clamor of competing activities and interests are always ringing in his ears. Too often, he wants to play safe, so he spreads himself out, going higher and yon. He wants peace but he is afraid to speak too loudly concerning it; he wants health, but he must constantly rush around endangering his health or he will not make the proper contacts. He wants a good environment for himself and his children, but he must not criticize or fight against existing evils for he might hurt his own business or lose certain friends. He wants to carry his share of interests in worth-while activities, but he must also give him time to questionable groups to maintain his prestige. He wants to be honest, but pressure is brought to bear that keeps him hovering on the line.

So—he rides in all directions. Mental hospitals are filled, young men die of heart failure, old men look back with little satisfaction on wasted lives, and the world calls for men who will be men. It is a time of confusion and chaos. Which way shall a man go?

Jesus knew what was in the mind and heart of men. He knows now. He has not turned away from man and washed his hands of all association with him. He has provided a way out of it all. Blessed, he says or happy are the pure in heart, for they shall see God. Now, in the New Testament purity carries with it the idea of integrity, the absence of low aims, and a singleness of purpose. Dr. Moffat translates this verse as, "Blessed are they who are not double-minded."

This Beatitude points the way towards peace of mind and an abundance of life that is meaningful. Jesus is saying, set your mind on the ideals of God, and you will see God, you will live, really live life. Get on your horse and ride off in one direction, gather up all of life and center your aims on the things of God, and God will lead you down the pathway of life.

Here is how you do it!
(1) Make God primary in life. Let him come first. The cost is high, but the "rewards are eternal."
(2) Set your goals high. Jesus said, "Be ye perfect, even as your Father in heaven is perfect." You may never reach that goal of perfection. It will keep receding, but your aims will become increasingly higher and purer. You will see more and more of God, and you will want to soar higher and higher in your experiences of Him.

(3) Have a reason for the faith that is within you. This will come naturally if one has placed God first and set his goals high, but on the other hand, until one can give a sound reason for his faith he is unlikely to place God first or set his goals high. This calls for consecrated thinking, study, and prayer. Albert Schweitzer says, "with the spirit of the age, I am in complete disagreement because it is filled with disdain for thinking... The modern man has no longer any spiritual self confidence at all. In spite of his great capacity in material matters, he is an altogether stunted being, because he makes no use of his capacity for thinking. Renunciation of thinking is a declaration of spiritual bankruptcy. Our spiritual life is rotten throughout because it is permeated through and through with skepticism." And we might add that skepticism is the result of little or no thought.

Until an idea, a philosophy, or a faith becomes our very own, it has little value for us. The Christian faith cannot be in actuality be really our own or be of real value to us until we think and pray our own way through to a basic reasoning for the faith we claim.

Following this pathway brings one to Christ, to God. One then sees God in all life around them. One becomes appreciative of life, grateful for opportunities of service — and happy, with purity of heart.

Funeral Rites Set For Young Drowning Victim

Six-Year-Old Child Fell In Wills Creek

A funeral service for six-year-old Lawrence William Roderick, who drowned Saturday after falling into Wills Creek and was swept three blocks to the Baltimore Street bridge will be held tomorrow at 11 a. m. at Kight Funeral Home with Rev. Edgar W. Hammersla, pastor of Central Methodist Church, officiating.

Interment will be in the IOOF Cemetery, Elk Garden. The child was playing with friends in the rear of the 300 block North Mechanic Street and apparently missed his footing on the concrete wall that lines the creek. Swollen waters carried his body almost to Baltimore Street.

The other youths, according to police, reportedly had started playing basketball and his absence from the group was not immediately noticed.

As he was sighted moments later in the creek, several of his companions made an attempt to rescue him but found the water too swift.

Officers Commended

Police Chief R. E. Flynn, in a letter yesterday commended police officers and the Cumberland Auxiliary Police for their work in trying to rescue the boy.

In the letter, copies of which will be sent to Commissioner John J. Long, the Civil Service Commission and the Auxiliary Police, and posted on the bulletin board at police headquarters, Flynn states:

"I wish to commend Lt. Raymond R. Johnson, the Auxiliary police and in particular, Officer Joseph Stutcher, who tried so faithfully under the most trying conditions to save the life of a six-year-old boy, Lawrence William Roderick, who fell in Wills Creek at about 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon."

"It is deeds of this kind that show the true worth of a policeman in guarding the destiny of the public."

"I salute you for a job well done."

Sincerely
R. E. Flynn

The Roderick boy was sighted by other persons as he was swept as far down stream as the Market Street bridge. He was lost to sight after that until his body was recovered not far from the Algonquin Hotel.

City police were notified of the tragedy but he could not be located on a search of the stream as far down as the falls below the Western Maryland station. Officer Joseph Stutcher left to organize a search team at the Canada House and he and three volunteers manned a boat while a search was made with a grappling hook at various points in Wills Creek.

Body Is Recovered

The body was recovered shortly before 3 p. m. just above the middle span of the Baltimore Street bridge. Lawrence was the only child of Lawrence A. Roderick who had moved this past Thursday from Mexico Farms to Rawlings.

The boys mother, Mrs. Evelyn (Hickey) Roderick died in childbirth and he had been raised by Mrs. Flossie (Shirley) Liller, Roderick's housekeeper. The father manages the local office of Osgood Bus Lines.

Assisting Officer Stutcher in the grappling operation were Albert L. Decker, Ridgeley, and Glen Isner, a member of the Auxiliary Police Association.

After bringing the body of the child to the rear of the Algonquin Hotel, artificial respiration methods were applied until the arrival of a pneulator, a new type resuscitator from the City Fire Department.

Firemen Assist
Also participating in the search and attempted reviving operations were Lt. Raymond R. Johnston and Officers J. Henry Stutcher, Thomas J. See, Walter P. Crabtree, J. Carl Stouffer and Louis D. Downey, all of the City Police Department, and Chief Virgil A. Parker and Assistant Chief Robert C. Long, of the Fire Department.

A member of the Auxiliary Police unit also assisted in administering artificial respiration. Dr. C. F. W. Snyder, Greene Street, was summoned to the scene and pronounced the boy dead after the pneulator failed to revive him.

The tragedy occurred about 2 p. m. and police estimated the youth was in the water for nearly an hour. The reviving methods were attempted for close to an hour before being discontinued.

Crowds of people thronged the Market and Baltimore Street bridges and lined the banks of Wills Creek while the search for the body was going on. Mrs. Liller brought the boy with her Saturday while she visited her sister, Mrs. David F. Conley, 326 North Mechanic Street.

He was playing with one of Mrs. Conley's sons and other children of the neighborhood prior to the accident. The youth was born in Keyser. Surviving, besides his father is the maternal grandfather Charles Hickey, Elk Garden, and an aunt, Mrs. Kathleen Lyons, of Morgantown.

Check Flue Fire
East Side Fire Company checked a flue fire at 477 Goethe Street yesterday evening. Firemen were called out at 4:57 p. m. and the company's truck was back at 5:29 p. m.

Signs Of Spring

One thing that warm, spring weather brings with it is more activity on the farms. Two Allegany High School students who visited the Habeeb Farm on Baltimore Pike, are shown helping with the chores, feeding one of the farm's two black lambs. Left to right, they are Miss Peggy Dye and Miss Nancy Hager. Yes, spring is a nice time of the year.

Area Man Dies Of Jap Rifle Bullet Wound

Thomas C. Robinson
Death Self-Inflicted

A Paw Paw, W. Va. Western Maryland Railway track foreman died Saturday night of what police termed a self-inflicted bullet wound.

Paw Paw Police Chief Charles Roy Robey said Thomas Clay Robinson, 54, was found in his room at home by his family who had just returned from a theatre.

Authorities said he was found sitting on a trunk in his room with a .31 caliber high-powered Japanese rifle between his legs. The bullet had entered the face at the chin blowing away part of the skull.

Robey added the Japanese war souvenir had been made over by Robinson for use as a hunting rifle. Police set the time of death between 8:30 and 9 o'clock Saturday night.

Robinson was born in Kifer, Md., a son of Mrs. Viola (Northcraft) Robinson, Thurmont, Md., and the late Charles Robinson. He married the former Mrs. Margie DeLauder September 21, 1946 in Cumberland.

Besides his mother and widow, Robinson is survived by one daughter, Mrs. Pauline Stonebreaker, Rochester, N. Y., and four sons, Fred and Glenn Robinson, both with the U. S. Air Force, and Ronnie and Arthur Robinson, at home.

Also surviving are three step sons, Richard DeLauder, New York; Thomas DeLauder, Paw Paw, and Jack DeLauder, with the U. S. Navy, Norfolk, Va.; three step daughters, Misses Mary, Betty and Jean DeLauder, all at home; three brothers, Stanley Robinson, Ridgeley; Shide Robinson, Thurmont; and Roy Robinson, Hagerstown; one sister, Mrs. Delsie Crabtree, Cumberland, and two grandchildren.

He had been a resident of Paw Paw for the past seven years after moving there from Kifer. He is a member of the Christian Church and Cumberland Aerie 245, Fraternal Order of Eagles.

The body will be taken from the Parks Funeral Home in Berkeley Springs to the Parks Funeral Chapel in Paw Paw this afternoon for services tomorrow at 2 p. m. Rev. John Van Voorhis, pastor of the Christian Church, will officiate and interment will be in Camp Hill Cemetery.

Construction of the Benjamin Banneker Housing Development seen here is about 65 per cent complete and officials of the Cumberland Housing Authority expect the project to be completed by early in July. The John I. Vandegrift Construction Company began work on the $265,000 housing project last Armistice Day. It will provide modern housing facilities for 30 families of this city.

City Revenues Approach Goal In 3rd Quarter

City revenues were within eight per cent of a $1,322,730 goal and spending was lagging three points below par as the city ended the third quarter of its fiscal year on March 31.

Collections were $1,216,143.90, or 91.94 of the total levy, according to a monthly financial report issued by Arthur B. Gibson, city auditor. The tax collection has already passed its goal with collections of $906,816.74, or 101 per cent of the $896,200 tax levy.

With three months to go, excess collections are now at the $21,794.77 mark. This includes $10,616.74 of excess taxes—an average of $6.142.06 from the amount expected from state racing income, $4,694.27 from state income tax and $341.70 from city weight receipts.

Still to be collected is $128,380.87, including a great deal of the money expected from state shared income. Major items are $55,715.67 expected from general licenses, $15,448.67 from general and special income, $11,934.59 from recreation income, $14,071.50 from state auto license fees and $18,585.69 from state gas and oil tax.

State Funds Sited Many of these items are not due until April, May and June. If they exceed expectations, the city will end the year with a surplus but nobody at City Hall is willing to estimate what the amount may be. Certainly, nobody is willing to predict the amount may reach the $88,000 on hand to begin the present fiscal year.

As the third quarter ended, the city departments had spent $789,446.19, or 72 per cent of an appropriation of $1,095,030. Par for the period is 75 per cent.

Most departments appeared to have sufficient funds to complete the year, with the exception of contingent, which was down to $81.86.

Rotarians To Meet

"Just a moment, Mr. Speaker," will be the subject of the program planned by Max Bastian and his committee at the weekly luncheon meeting of the Cumberland Rotary Club tomorrow at 12:15 p. m. in Central YMCA.

Two CAP Cadets Win Promotions

Two members of Fort Cumberland Flight, Civil Air Patrol Cadets, were promoted from private first class to corporal, according to Lt. J. F. Wagner, commandant. The new corporals are Danny Long and Timothy Stein. Another cadet, James Summers, was assigned as recreation officer.

Activities Thursday included a discussion on types and stresses of planes. The cadets met Saturday at the Municipal Airport for field work.

Governor Signs Police Pay, Tax Rate Measures

BALTIMORE, April 12 (AP)—Maryland property owners, state police and judges of the Court of Appeals will realize more money from three of 178 bills signed into law yesterday by Gov. McKeldin.

One measure sets the real estate tax at 5.67 cents per $100 of valuation, the lowest rate in state history. It will mean a saving of about five cents per 100 dollars to property owners. The present tax is 11 cents.

Another measure becoming law boosts the salaries of all state policemen by $200 a year. And judges of the Court of Appeals received a salary hike in a third bill. The chief judge will receive $20,000 and associate judges $19,000.

Other measures becoming law with the governor's signature authorize absentee voting and prohibit netting and commercial fishing, except crabbing, in the Magothy River.

The governor has now affixed his signature to 581 of the 850 bills passed by the General Assembly.

Home From Far East Pfc. Reese Tasker, Jr., of Deer Park, was among 1,749 rotation troops from the Far East aboard the Navy vessel, Gen. J. H. McRae, yesterday.

Mothers' Club To Meet The Mothers' Club of Columbia Street School will meet at 1:30 p. m. tomorrow at the home of Mrs. John Miller, 347 Bedford Street.

Community Room Planned At Banneker Housing Unit

A community room will be provided in the Benjamin Banneker Housing Development on Frederick Street, according to James B. Raines, executive secretary of the Cumberland Housing Authority.

Raines said the 27 by 18 foot room located on the first floor of the housing project will be available to any organized group in the city. The Housing Authority will work closely with the City Recreation Department in providing recreational facilities for the 30 colored families who will make their homes in the village.

Playground facilities will be available at nearby Carver School Playground.

Robert E. Pence, city recreation director, reports the department will place a leader at the Carver Playground when the housing unit opens in July.

He said the department has placed play equipment on the playground each summer, but the field was not used enough in the past to justify the cost of a paid director.

Officials estimate that Benjamin Banneker Village will be completed early in July, since work on the 30 family development is now about 65 per cent completed.

Moderate weather has allowed the John I. Vandegrift Company, contractor for the $265,000 project, to work uninterrupted throughout the winter.

In "fair" condition at Sacred Heart Hospital is Mrs. Mary Washington, 60, of 170 Winecoke Street, who was admitted there early Saturday with second and third degree burns on the upper half of her body.

Authorities said the burns resulted when she apparently used kerosene to start a fire in a kitchen stove. Coal gas fumes in the bottom of the stove evidently caused an explosion resulting in flames enveloping Mrs. Washington.

Her son, Joseph Washington, 1018 Gay Street, was summoned and took her to the hospital. A small fire in the kitchen was extinguished and firemen were not called.

Service Man Injured George Lease, 53, of 635 Columbia Avenue, was admitted to Sacred Heart Hospital Saturday with a right hip injury. Attaché said he fell on the B&O crossing at Pear Street.

Mrs. Dorothy K. Ruckman, 35, wife of Lorain O. Ruckman, Augusta, W. Va., was slightly injured Friday afternoon in a two-car crash on Commerce Street.

Ruckman collided with the backing auto of Donald D. Lantz, 31, RD 4, City. His wife was not hospitalized and no charges were filed.

A Keyser serviceman was injured Friday night about 10:45 o'clock in an automobile accident along Route 135 between McCoolle and Westernport.

Ralph Shumaker, 19, of Church Street, Keyser, suffered head injuries according to attaches of Potomac Valley Hospital where he was taken following the mishap.

Another occupant of the car, Bernard Cole, also of Keyser, was treated. Investigating was Trooper A. M. Spiroch, of the Maryland State Police. The car was reported to have left the highway near Reeve's Garage as the driver, Shumaker, lost control.

Traffic, Fall And Fire Take Toll

Ten area persons were injured in a series of mishaps over the weekend.

Two Romney residents and a Junction, W. Va., resident were admitted to Memorial Hospital yesterday afternoon following a head-on collision along Route 50 at Gap bridge near Romney.

West Virginia State Police last night said the collision occurred at the west end of the bridge which crosses Mill Creek. Miss Phyllis Stickle, 13, of Junction, was admitted to the hospital suffering a leg injury and lacerations. Miss Frances High, 31, of Romney, suffered a head injury.

Arlo Haines, 52, of Romney, driver of one of the cars, was treated and released. Miss High was in the Haines vehicle, attaches said. State Police of West Virginia said John Kenneth Stickle, 16, driver of the other car, was on the wrong side of the road when the mishap occurred. He is being charged with failing to keep to the right of the road.

A Marine, Carl Hansen, 31, stationed at Tyndall Air Force Base, Fla., suffered an injury to his collar bone in an auto mishap about 12:30 a. m. yesterday near Cresaptown.

Maryland State Police said he was admitted to Sacred Heart Hospital. His wife Margaret Hansen suffered a left leg injury and their conditions are reported as "good."

Police said the couple was apparently traveling at a high rate of speed on Volke Road and the auto turned over as it left the highway. Investigating was Trooper Jack Brownings.

In "fair" condition at Sacred Heart Hospital is Mrs. Mary Washington, 60, of 170 Winecoke Street, who was admitted there early Saturday with second and third degree burns on the upper half of her body.

Authorities said the burns resulted when she apparently used kerosene to start a fire in a kitchen stove. Coal gas fumes in the bottom of the stove evidently caused an explosion resulting in flames enveloping Mrs. Washington.

Her son, Joseph Washington, 1018 Gay Street, was summoned and took her to the hospital. A small fire in the kitchen was extinguished and firemen were not called.

Another occupant of the car, Bernard Cole, also of Keyser, was treated. Investigating was Trooper A. M. Spiroch, of the Maryland State Police. The car was reported to have left the highway near Reeve's Garage as the driver, Shumaker, lost control.

Funeral Rites Set For Young Drowning Victim

Six-Year-Old Child Fell In Wills Creek

A funeral service for six-year-old Lawrence William Roderick, who drowned Saturday after falling into Wills Creek and was swept three blocks to the Baltimore Street bridge will be held tomorrow at 11 a. m. at Kight Funeral Home with Rev. Edgar W. Hammersla, pastor of Central Methodist Church, officiating.

Interment will be in the IOOF Cemetery, Elk Garden. The child was playing with friends in the rear of the 300 block North Mechanic Street and apparently missed his footing on the concrete wall that lines the creek. Swollen waters carried his body almost to Baltimore Street.

The other youths, according to police, reportedly had started playing basketball and his absence from the group was not immediately noticed.

As he was sighted moments later in the creek, several of his companions made an attempt to rescue him but found the water too swift.

Officers Commended

Police Chief R. E. Flynn, in a letter yesterday commended police officers and the Cumberland Auxiliary Police for their work in trying to rescue the boy.

In the letter, copies of which will be sent to Commissioner John J. Long, the Civil Service Commission and the Auxiliary Police, and posted on the bulletin board at police headquarters, Flynn states:

"I wish to commend Lt. Raymond R. Johnson, the Auxiliary police and in particular, Officer Joseph Stichter, who tried so faithfully under the most trying conditions to save the life of a six-year-old boy, Lawrence William Roderick, who fell in Wills Creek at about 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon. It is deeds of this kind that show the true worth of a policeman in guarding the destiny of the public.

"I salute you for a job well done."

Sincerely R. E. Flynn

The Roderick boy was sighted by other persons as he was swept by far down stream as the Market Street bridge. He was lost to sight after that until his body was recovered not far from the Algonquin Hotel.

City police were notified of the tragedy but he could not be located on a search of the stream as far down as the falls below the Western Maryland station. Officer Joseph Stichter left to organize a search team at the Canada House and he and three volunteers manned a boat while a search was made with a grappling hook at various points in Wills Creek.

Body Is Recovered

The body was recovered shortly before 3 p. m. just above the middle span of the Baltimore Street bridge. Lawrence was the only child of Lawrence A. Roderick who had moved this past Thursday from Mexico Farms to Rawlings.

The boys mother, Mrs. Evelyn (Hickey) Roderick died in childbirth and he had been raised by Mrs. Flossie (Shircliff) Liller, Roderick's housekeeper. The father manages the local office of Os-good Bus Lines.

Assisting Officer Stichter in the grappling operation were Albert L. Decker, Ridgeley; and Glen Isner, a member of the Auxiliary Police Association.

After bringing the body of the child to the rear of the Algonquin Hotel, artificial respiration methods were applied until the arrival of a pneulator, a new type resuscitator from the City Fire Department.

Firemen Assist

Also participating in the search and attempted reviving operations were Lt. Raymond R. Johnston and Officers J. Henry Stichter, Thomas J. See, Walter P. Crabtree, J. Carl Stouffer and Louis D. Downey, all of the City Police Department, and Chief Virgil A. Parker and Assistant Chief Robert C. Long, of the Fire Department.

A member of the Auxiliary Police unit also assisted in administering artificial respiration. Dr. C. F. W. Snyder, Greene Street, was summoned to the scene and pronounced the boy dead after the pneulator failed to revive him.

The tragedy occurred about 2 p. m. and police estimated the youth was in the water for nearly an hour. The reviving methods were attempted for close to an hour before being discontinued.

Crowds of people thronged the Market and Baltimore Street bridges and lined the banks of Wills Creek while the search for the body was going on. Mrs. Liller brought the boy with her Saturday while she visited her sister, Mrs. David F. Conley, 326 North Mechanic Street.

He was playing with one of Mrs. Conley's sons and other children of the neighborhood prior to the accident. The youth was born in Keyser. Surviving, besides his father is the maternal grandfather Charles Hickey, Elk Garden, and an aunt, Mrs. Kathleen Lyons, of Morgantown.

Garrett Firemen Conclude Course

Some 17 Garrett County volunteer firemen from Kitzmiller and Deer Park will take a final examination Thursday night marking the end of a 29-week Fire School which has been held in the two communities.

Cromwell C. Zembower of La-Valle, who has instructed the course, said that 10 Kitzmiller firemen and seven from Deer Park are in line to take the examination, having completed all other requirements.

Training sessions, which took three hours, were held every Wednesday night alternately in one of the other Garrett County communities. The course, the first of three offered by the Fire Service Extension of the University of Maryland, features basic fundamentals in the use of fire equipment and fire fighting. Previously, Garrett County Fire Schools have been held only in Oakland.

A dinner for graduates of the course and their wives, to which Garrett County officials will be invited, will be held Saturday, May 2, in Kitzmiller.

Signs Of Spring

One thing that warm, spring weather brings with it is more activity on the farms. Two Allegheny High School students who visited the Habeeb Farm on Baltimore Pike, are shown helping with the chores, feeding one of the farm's two black lambs. Left to right, they are Miss Peggy Dye and Miss Nancy Hager. Yes, spring is a nice time of the year.

Associated Press Scored Outstanding Triumphs During Past Year

NEW YORK (AP) April 12 (AP)—Frank J. Starzel, general manager of The Associated Press, said in his annual report that long term planning and effort enabled AP to score "outstanding triumphs" in 1952.

He said coverage of the presidential campaign, the election and its aftermath, based on careful and thorough preparation, resulted in "a better informed public than ever before."

Concerning foreign coverage, Starzel noted that AP produced "frequent behind the news explanations" on the Korean War in addition to its day to day reporting of the fighting and truce talks.

"News of Iron Curtain areas continued throughout the year to be in great demand," he added, "and AP moved forcefully ahead in its continuing efforts to make this news understandable despite barriers of censorship and restrictions on the movements of correspondents."

Starzel said "The Associated Press actively continued its efforts, with the U. S. Department of State and other government agencies" to obtain the release of William N. Oatis, Prague bureau chief jailed in 1951 on "espionage" charges.

The efforts so far have been unavailing. Starzel noted that another AP man, Photographer Frank Noel, had been a prisoner of the Communists in Korea for more than two years, with his release awaiting a truce.

Starzel mailed his report to newspaper and radio members of The Associated Press in advance of the AP annual meeting here on April 20.

Many Improvements

Starzel said AP's accomplishments during 1952 included: Development of new techniques in national election coverage, including surveys and polls.

Substantial completion of a 10 years' effort to mechanize international communications which enables AP to deliver and receive news and pictures to and from distant parts of the world by radio-teletype.

Conversion to Teletypesetter operation of all state single circuits. News was transmitted for many years in capital letters only. Now, on Teletypesetter circuits, news is printed with both capital and small letters, as on a typewriter. The Teletypesetter tape can be converted automatically into type on newspaper plants.
